THE GENTRY MURDER CASE IS DUPLICATED.

Actor Bigelow Kills Amy Thill, with Whom He Was Infatuated dered Girl.

Associated Press Lensed-wire Service.

NEW YORK, March 27.—John Bigelow, an actor, shot and killed Amy Thill, an acress, today, in the furnished room of the woman on Twenty-fourth street and then blew out his brains. The tragedy was not discovered until almost evening, when both bodies were found lying cold and bloody on the floor of the apartment. None of those in the house could assign a motive for the deed.

Bigelow was about 30 years old and the woman was not more than 25. She bore a character which was blameless. John Bigelow, who committed the crime, was the son of James Bigelow, an ex-Mayor of Morristowo, N. J., who is a retired lawyer. The young man lives on West Thirty-eighth street, and just before the Christmas holidays was a member of Sydney Drew's company. It was during this engagement that he met Amy Thill. He fell in love with her. She was also a member of the company and they decided to leave it at Christmas. Since then neither of them has been engaged in professional work. Bigelow is said to have been offered an engagement, but refused to accept it unless she was also engaged.

Members of the theatrical profession tonight assert that the case is a parallel to the case of James Gentry, who shot Madge York at Philadelphia a few weeks ago.

GREENWOOD (Ky.,) March 27.-A daring, but unsuccessful, attempt at train obbery occurred at 2:30 a.m. today in the outhern part of Kentucky, when six me indertook to stop the south-bound train One of the six was killed outright: one died at 4 this morning, and the third, giving the name of Miller, lies here severely wounded. The other three escaped. The The reason for this summary disposa that some tidings of their purpose had been given to the railroad or express auhorities, and T. R. Griffin, superintendent of police on the Southern road, had with nim on the train two trusted assistants. The train had just reached the south end of tunnel No. 94, a mile north of Green wood, when the robbers signalled it to stop. They had scarcely disclosed their surpose when Griffin and his assistants egan offensive operations. In ten min utes three robbers had bitten the dust and he told the following story: fireman, was keeping her hot. We had mail, baggage and express cars, a smoker, two day coaches and two sleepers. We left Somerset on time. I slowed down a little as we ran through tunnel No. 8, about ten miles south of Somerset, in Pulaski county, Ky. About 300 yards this side of the tunnel a man on the track with a white lantern flagged me down. This is one of the loneliest spots on the road. You know it is up in the rough and rugged mountain district of Kentucky There is not a house within two miles of the place. The road somewhat curves, and altogether a better place could not have been selected for a train-robbery. The been selected for a train-robbery. The fellow in front kept swinging his lantern

He stood in the center of the track. I stopped the train and the fellow climbed into the cab and said: "Stand here till I tell you to go on," and pointed a pistol at me. He stood on the left-hand side of the cab. The fellow did not say another word, but kept his pistol pointed at me."

"Rankin, my fireman," continued Springfield, "looked out of the cab on his side and said: "They've killed two of them," but the fellow kept me covered with his big gun and did not eay a word. After one or two more shots were heard up in and said: 'Go ahead.' I opened the throttle and we ran into Cumberland Falls, about four miles further down."

When asked why he did not shoot the robber as he left the engine, Springfield said that neither he nor his fireman had any weapons of any kind.

"After the fellow told me to go ahead we had gone but a short distance when Rankin found a wounded man on the tender. We stopped at Cumberlad Falls, four miles from the tunnel, and put him off, leaving him in the telegraph office. He was badly shot in the arm and side. He was badly shot in the arm and side. He said he was a tramp stealing a ride and that he was not with the train-robbers, but we do not believe it. We were not stopped by the robbers more than ten minutes. We came on to Chattanooga and got here on time. That's all I know about it, and I don't want to experience any more fellows standing to my lence any more fellows standing to my cab and pointing a big pistol at me."

In one of the coaches when the train stopped and the shooting began, one man with a big mouth and a loud voice, yelled:
"By —, we are held up!" Women and children began crying and everybody began throwing money and jewelry under the seats and they did not sleep any more. Clint Fallgood, the brave little detective who took such a prominent part in the prevention of the robbery, returned to the city this evening from the scene of the robbery. To a reporter of the Times to the city this evening from the scene of the robbery. To a reporter of the Times he gave the following statement of the affair:

"I am employed by the Cincinnati South-ern Ratiroad as a detective and Tuesday morning received a telegram from Super-intendent Griggs to report at Somerset. I reported and asked the superintendet what was wanted. He replied that he wanted me to come down to Chattanooga that night. He did not tell anything

"Griffin, the chief detective of the road and WHI Eddy, another detective, came out on the train also. They were prepared with double-barreled shotguns. Eddy and myself were sitting in the same seat, while Griffin was secreted in the express-car. As we passed out of the mouth of Tunnel No. 9 I heard the engineer blow his whistle twice which was a signal that he had been flagged and was to stop the train. Eddy and myself walked out of the door of the smoker together. Eddy got down on the last step of the smoker on down on the dast step of the smoker on the east side, while I got on the dast step on the other side and we were in that position when the train stopped.

"Three men passed by Eddy, who at the time had squatted down under the end of the car and went to the baggege-car. One of them had a double-barreled shotgun in his hand and looked down at Eddy, but passed into the car. The three men then went in the car where they remained four or five minutes. I heard one of them say 'hands up,' and something about the money in the car. They then walked about in the car, I think, and were looking for money in the safe. I later heard them cursing, but could not tel what they were saying. I think they had found that they had made a mistake and gotten into the wrong car. They came ou same side and the way they had entered the car. "The two younger men made a break for the express-car, while the big fellow who proved to be Jesse Morrow, stepped down at the side of the car with shotgun in his hand. He put it to his shoulder and pointed it at Eddy, who was at the place where he had left the smoker leveled on him all the time, but when he found he had been discovered and was about to be shot at he opened fire, or rather fired one shot at the robber, which did the work. The load of buckshot struck the man in the left side, a little below the arm, and passed out on the right side of the body, killing him instantly.

"About this time the two men who had come out of the baggage-car with Mor opened fire upon Eddy and were ting at him pretty lively. When the stopped I got under the truss-rods of th aggage-car, which are near the wheels I saw a party at the steps of the express car and as soon as the two men opene fire on Eddy this man advanced toward me and got on the first step of the bag-gage-car. I fired on him and he fell to the ground and did not utter a word. When I went to find him afterward he was gone and I do not know what became

The shooting on the other car had "The shooting on the other car had stopped and the men were nowhere to be seen except the two who were near by, one dead and the other mortally wounded. The confederates who escaped, I think, are three in number. A large posse of people residing in the vicinity of the robber; started out in pursuit of the parties, who

I think, have taken to the mountains.
"The man killed outright was Jesse Morrow. He resided with his family in Wayne county, about fifteen miles from as the worst and most desperate man in nmunity. Thomas Morrow, the man who was picked up near the dead man was shot hrough the breast. He was carried to the depot at Greenwood, where he died. This man was about thirty years Underwood and he is a desperate character. I don't know which way this man went after the affair was over. Martin the man who was so badly wounded, says he is from Pennsylvania, and that he was a tramp riding on the blind-baggage and was not with the gang who held up the train. He is mortally wounded and can

WORK FOR THE CORONER.

SOMERSET, (Ky.,) March 27 .- The cor oner will hold an inquest tomorrow at his son, Thomas. Fraser was with the horses on top of the tunnel. One tacked the express-car and met the detectives. The indications are that the gang had no outside assistance.

The physicians performed an operation on William Martin tonight, but he cannot recover. The Adams Express Company has offered a liberal reward for the capture of the three robbers who escaped. A telegram from Cumberland Falls say the third man taken from the engine has since died. The robbery was planned for March 11, but as the creek was out of its banks the men were afraid they would be caught, and postponed it.

RAN OFF WITH THE CARS. * LITTLE ROCK (Ark.,) March 27.-Train No. 54 on the Iron Mountain road was No. 34 on the fron mountain roac was held up by robbers about 10 o'clock tonight just north of Williamsville, Mo., eighteen miles north of Poplar Bluff, Mo., by two men. The robbers cut off the mail, express and baggage cars and ran about half a mile and robbed the express car. It is not the property they got. The conknown what booty they got. The con-ductor lost his watch and money, and it is supposed the passengers were also robbed, but the details have not been received at this hour. Particulars are meager and the railroad officials are very reticent. Reports indi-cate that the robbery was a failure, the bandits securing little or nothing, owing to their inability to get into the safe.

REBELS DEFEATED.

Colombia.

COLON (Colombia,) March 27.—(By South American Cable.) A great battle the rebels. The latter were defeated after a struggle of ten hours. Although 1500 government troops died while on the march, the rebels, who numbered 2500, were routed and the town captured. The government forces lost 700; the rebels 1200. Two thousand rebels surrendered. The steamship Allianca, of the Colombian line, from New York March 20, arrived here after passing over the usual course. She was not molested.

SACRAMENTO, March 27.—(Special Dis SACRAMBNIO, March 27.—(Special Dispatch.) The Governor has approved the General Appropriation Bill, with the exception of a number of items which he objects to, and gives the reasons therefor. The appropriations which met with disapproved foot up over $1,000,000, and this, together with other appropriation bills which will fail to receive his signature, bids fair to bring the tax levy consider below the 50-cent limit. There are forty-five of these districts and each one received an appropriation of from $3000 to $7000. In disapproving the appro-priation of a third of $1,000,000, he says: This is not approved because it is exceed sive, unnecessary and an uncalled-for tax upon the people of the State. under sentence of a court-marcai had accept been received by the President.

The State Department has no confirmation of the report from United States Consul Weller at Tamatave, nor Consul Campbell at Mauritius, which is the nearest cable point to Madagascar. It is probable that the Governor's message may cause the State Department to cable to one of these consuls for an account of the affair, instead of waiting until a report comes to hand through the mails from this remote point which, though it might be sufficient in an ordinary case, would hardly meet the requirements of a case involving the imprisonment of an American citizen. Gov. Morrill's course in addressing himself directly to the President in such a matter is said to be unusual, but may perhaps be based upon the precedents set by the State Department in calling upon the Governor of Louisiana and the Governor of Colorado recently to protect citizens of foreign countries within their respective States. There seems to be an impression, based on letters said to have been written by Walter to friends in this country as based on letters said to have been written by Walter to friends in this country as well as to the State Department renouncing his citizenship, that he has lost this citizenship. No such letters have been received at the State Department and if there was any such communication in a private letter it is said that it would carry little weight.

HONOLULU, March 20.—(Associated Press correspondence, wired from San Francisco, March 27.) Martial law was declared off on March 18. The military commission has been adjourned and the larger part of 190 prisoners brought before this body are now working out larger part of 190 prisoners brought be-fore this body are now working out their sentences in the quarries or on toe roads. The interest of the past few days has centered principally in the sessions of the advisory council, which has been passing laws bearing directly upon the recent rehellion.

A law of no little interest to the de ported contingent makes it unlawful for any person to land in the Hawaiian Islands from any vessel arriving from a foreign port who is a criminal or refuges from justice, or who has been convicted of crime or who has been under arrest for a criminal offense, and has departed or escaped from the Hawalian Islands in order to avoid trial, or who has been de-ported from the Hawaiian Islands by order of the President or Marshal in 'ime martial law, or who has been banished by the sentence of any court, unless such person shall have received a permission from the Minister of Foreign Affairs so person shall have received a permission from the Minister of Foreign Affairs so to land.

A violation of this law by an attempt to land in the islands is punishable by a term of imprisonment at hard labor not exceeding two years and a fine not exceeding $5000. Any master of a vessel who knowingly brings such people back to the country is subject to a fine of $500 for each person brought and landed, of he may be imprisoned for a year at hard labor and his vessel not given clearance until the fine is paid.

An indemnity law for acts done during martial law has also been passed, also an act creating the Supreme Court a court of claims. An act which has created more or less adverse comment is one providing for the deportation of dangerous persons convicted of conspiracy against the established system of government. It was, however, passed by the unanimous vote of the councils and is generally considered as a necessary protection to the government against law-less people who come to the islands for little else than to make trouble.

The disposition of Liliuokalani is causing not a few rumors, but the government less people who come to the islands for little else than to make trouble. The disposition of Lilluokalani is causing not a few rumors, but the government officials state that nothing has been done or suggested other than is already in force. Atty.-Gen. Smith, on being asked what disposition was to be made of the ex-Queen, said: "She's already disposed of. No advances have been made to the government on her part. She will be kept where she is." The appropriation to cover the expenses of the rebellion has been raised $15,000, and will undoubtedly reach $100,000 before all the bills are paid. The failure of the cable appropriation in Congress has in no degree lessened the laterest in cable matters. The attitude of the United States turnishes food for much adverse criticism and gives the British sympathizers ground for argument that is hard so meet. In an interview regarding an appropriation for a private corporation for assistance for this country a member of the Cabinent said today: "We have received no proposition or suggestion from any private source. We are ready at any time to consider any proposition that may advance the interests of this nation, but thus far no assistance for a cable has been requested."

"They are anxhous to have the question settled as to their right to deport dangerous characters from the islands, when the latter are, as under the late crisis, under martial law. They claim such a right in the present instance, and are anxious to have that right established by a judicial decision in another country. Mr. Kinney came here with authority to retain special counsel to represent them, but upon examination decided to leave the matter as it was, consequently I am not retained by the Hawaiian government at all, but in looking after the interests of the present defendants I am raising the point that they wished to see raised and settled, which comes to the same thing.

AN IDIOTIC POET.

The poet left Honoiulu suddenly, with no other baggage than a copy of his poems. His intended departure was kept secret, as he says he was afraid the officials of the government would put him in prison. Miller is very bitter against the men in control in Hawaii. He denounces the treatment accorded the political prisoners as barbarous in the extreme, and says that the men are dying in prison for want of air and proper food. He predicts that a filibustering expedition will be crganized to go to Honoiulu and rescue the political prisoners. When asked if he was done with Hawaii the poet said:

"I have not begun. I am going to wait and see who goes down there to liberate those men. Possibly they may be set at liberty when their captors get badly scared, for they are awful cowards. But if they do not liberate them the very last and lowest of political prisoners, and then return the lands appropriated for the natives and the Queen under the name of crown lands, I chall go to Japan. I am no stranger at the Japanese court. I think I shall only have to state the case and promise political rights to the oppressed 20,000 contract slaves of Japan down there to get an ironclad. There are hundreds of good men down there, kept in the vilest prisons by men who betrayed a woman and robbed her, and there is plenty of gold and a kingdom waiting for whoever will liberate those good men. "The soldiers down there will not fight for Dole. They won't fight to keep those men in prison. It is not human. In fact, they are all falling out, and I doubt if Dole has any friends at all who are not under pay as civil or military officers. Or in some way selfishly interested in his oligarchy. There has been nothing nearly so monstrous since the penitentiary is crowded with poor native women, waiting turns to see father, husband or son. I have often gone early in the morning and waited the whole day through, without venturing to intercede. I had to be very careful for fear I might to have a selficial prisoners.

through, without venturing to intercede. I had to be very careful for fear I might do harm instead of good. I am in possession of fearful facts. I call the attention of the world to these, after waiting too long. Too many are in jail down there. If that prison were here, the women of California would not let it stand two days."

Miller makes an appeal for books to be sent to the political prisoners, as the daya."

Miller makes an appeal for books to be sent to the political prisoners, as they have nothing to de and nothing to read, and unless they may have something to divert their minds they may go mad. Speaking of President Dole, Miller zaid: "He is, perhaps, the noblest-looking man to be found at the head of any government. But how he can go to church regularly, as he does, breathing the fresh, sweet Sunday air of Honolulu, with those hundreds of hollow eyes peering through the bars and those livid lips gasping for breath, is something I don't know."

Of the ex-Queen Miller says: "Of all those who participated in her arrest and trial, and of all that was said and done, the only Christian was that poor, dusky old woman in the midst of hundreds of cruel men. The only Christian act or utterance came from her."

He says that Maj. Seward, Col. Ashford, T. W. Walker and other white traitors are confined in cells only 5x8 feet. Two men are in each cell. They are allowed an airing two hours during the day. The average temperature in the cells is about 80 deg.

Gov. McKinley Has Both Feet on the Bimetallic Plank.

Gov. McKinley upon the silver question, but it can be stated authoritatively that Gov. McKinley's attitude is accurately expressed by the latest pronunciamento of the Republican party. Its plank in the platform adopted in Minneapolis June 10, 1892, said:

"The American people from tradition and interest favor bimetallism, and the Republican party demands the use of both gold and silver as standard money, with such restrictions and under some such provisions to be determined by legisation, as will secure the maintenance of the parity of the values of the two metans so that the purchasing and dubt-paying nower of a dollar, whether of gold or silver or paper, shall be at all times equal.

"The laterests of the producers of the county, its farmers and workingmon, demand that every dollar, paper or coincissued by the government, shall be as good as any other. We commend the wise and patriotic steps already taken by our government to secure an international conference to adopt such measures as will insure a parity of value between gold and silver for use as money throughout the world."

sults as reported to the Navy Department today were as follows:

Average time noted in four runs over a measured mile, 3 min. 22 sec.; steam pressure, 155; revolutions, 142; vacuum, 26 inches; horse power, 3935 under natural draught. This data corresponds to an average speed of 17,82 knots per hour. Under the terms of the contract the vessel was required to make at least 17 knots per hour, and a premium of $15,000 per quarter knot will be allowed for excess of speed. A run over a measured mile is not a certain test of what he boat can do on the two-hour trial which she must undergo, but if she maintains the same rate of speed she will earn her builders a bonus of $46,050.

The contract price of the vessel was $350,000, and she should have been completed in August 1892, but the delay is accounted for by difficulties in securing the peculiar curved armor required for the ship. It is expected that the official trial will soon follow.

Li Hung Chang's Condition is Con-ceded to Have Some Influence in the Matter—Serious Re-sults Anticipated.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.
VICTORIA (B. C.,) March 27.—Yokohama advices to March 12 by the steamer Tacoma state that the reasons why Japan is for the first time hopeful with regard to China's overtures for peace can now be explained.

By means of indirect correspondence through the legations of the United States in Tokio and Peking, it was discovered that the reluctance of the Chinese Emperor to confer full power upon an ambassador was caused by his dread that the Japanese conoppressive, and that it would, therefore, be unsafe to authorize any delegate to discuss them on his own responsibility. With a genuine desire to facilitate progress the Japanese government decided, shortly after the departure of the unacceptable mersengers, Chang and Shao, to waive a point which they had previously maintained with firmness, and to relieve their adversary of the worst of his apprehensions by communicating an outline of the terms to be exacted. This was done also through the exacted. This was done, also through the medium of the American legations, with the result that Li Hung Chang was immediately designated to act as ambassador, and the strongest assurances were given to Mr. Denby that on this occasion the credentials should be satisfactory in every particular. It is not understood that Japan's purposes have been disclosed min-utely. Enough has been imparted to show that China need not fear absolute degra-dation or the imposition of intolerable bur-dens, and the details will remain open to Reports from the scene of military activity in Manchuria are still confused and con-tradictory, but it is now ascertained that the capture of old New-Chwang was effected by the army corps of Lieut.-Gen. Hal-Cheng, marched northward toward LiaoYang for about twenty miles, and then turned back by another road leading to New-Chwang. Outside the walls of the city this body was joined by the fifth division, and the place was carried either on the 4th or 5th of March.

On March 7, Lieut.-Gen. Yamaji marched into Yin-Kow (called New Chwang by its foreign residents) with the first division and took possession, with scarcely a show of opposition. Cuards were posted around the alien quarter and arrangements were made for the complete protection of Americans and Europeans, to the warmly-expensed satisfaction of the consular officials. Two days later a brigade of the Third Division joined the First in an assault upon Ting-Chwang-Tai, a heavily-fortified fort on the western bank of the Liao River, to which all the defeated Chinese troops had betaken themselves. The stream was frozen so that no difficulty in crossing was experienced, and, after a battle lasting from 7 o'clock in the morning till 10:30 o'clock, the defenders were driven out in disorder, leaving 2000 dead behind them. SAN FRANCISCO, March 27.—Fair's "latest" will, the one produced by Mrs. Nellie Craven, will be contested.

Who will be the contestant? That question has not yet been determined, but it looks as if some of Fair's brothers and sisters and their children, who were the residuary legatees under the Goodfellow will, would range themselves against Charles Fair, Mrs. Oelrichs and Virginia Fair. The atorneys for the trustees will not let slip a word that will give an inkling of their plan of campaign. It is known that they are carefully conning the legal position of each eligible conthe legal position of each eligible con-testant with a view of selecting one that offers the least surface for attack by the guns of the enemy. No one doubts for a moment that the one selected will be unand in every other way, but especially with the technicalities of the law; hence the careful preparations now being made to guard the one leading the attack.

the careful preparations now being made to guard the one leading the attack.

The plain, cold proposition submitted to the court will be: Is this the last will of James G. Fair? The children will claim that it is. The trustees under the first will filed will claim that it is not. Each side now laughs immoderately at the claims of the other. Both camps are humming with life. On the outskirts, the freebooters of the law rustling about anxiously looking up the chances of the communicative "widows", and babbling children of the deceased that have cropped up since the report spread that "everybody has a chance." So far not one of them has let slip even a hint that he proposes to contest. As far as is known none of them have collected enough proof even to make it worth while to sell out. The people interested in the Gregory child are wrangling flercely among themselves and making all sorts of charges. Letters are pouring into the city from Carson and Sacramento with stories for and against Miss Lampman, the reputed wife of James G. Fair, Jr.

Each side has a small army hard at work over the Craven will. Out of the laboratory of the lawyers of the children comes the report of the writing experts.

daughter of Stevenson's wife and settled in the Hewaiian Islands. It was while on a visit-to them that Stevenson became acquainted with the little boy. A mutual attachment sprang up between the two that lasted until the novelist's death.

The two were constantly in each other's company. Together they rambled among the hills and seashore and the feeling that Stevenson feit for the youth developed into that of a fond and solicitous father. The author, enchanted with the dreamy life of the islands and anxious to be near the youth, resolved to settle permanently in the Pacific islands and subsequently purchassed a plantation at Samoa, where the instabled Strong and his family.

It was while here that the novelist induled in his celebrated cruises in the ocean. On all these voyages Stevenson was accompanied by young Strong. Australia, Hawaii and the Gibert Islands were visited at intervals by the chums. Stevenson has bequeathed half of his entire estate to this boy comrade. The property includes the immense tract in Samoa owned by the Dovellst, who developed it into a high state of cultivation. About a year ago Stevenson sent young Strong to Cakland to be educated, but the separation was too much for the novellist, who sent for the lad. During Stevenson's fatal inwas too much for the novelist, who sent for the lad. During Stevenson's fatal illness young Strong was constantly at his bedside and was present at his death. It was Stevenson's intention to educate him as an artist, the boy inheriting his father's taient. Before 6 o'clock this morning, grougs of people stood in the courthouse yard and at 9 o'clock, the hour set for the trial to begin, the courtroom was packed, while not one-fourth of the struggling mass of people could get in. At 10 o'clock the Taylor brothers, followed by a crowd of men and boys, were ted by Sheriff Stanley from the jail to the courthouse. William's face was drawn as if with great anxiety, while George gazed about the courtroom apparently unconcerned.

T. M. Brosneham, prosecutor of Lim county, read the indictment and made a brief statement of the State's case, is which has a brief statement of the State's case, is which has a brief statement of the State's case, is which he said it would be proved beyond a doubt that the Taylors murdered the Meeks family. He referred to the murder as the most atrocious that had ever been committed in Missouri. When he turned and pointed his finger at the elder brother, saying, "And there sits the man, Bill Taylar, who planned and helped carry out this ghastly murder," Taylor shifted uneasily in his chair. Te attorneys for the defense said that they wished to make no statements, but were ready for trial.

Fifteen witnesses were examined before the court adjourned for the day, the most important being Mrs. Meeks, mother of the murdered man. Her testimony was a corroboration of the proceedings on the night of the murder as already related, and is considered a strong point for the proceedings.

BALTIMORE, March 27.—At 2 o'clock on the morning of March 19, Spanish sen-tries murderously shot and killed a seaman of the British ship Laurestina, and badly ounded a Cuban negro, at St. Jago, Cuba The British government is and complications between England and Spain may result.

The Laurestina arrived here this after-noon from St. Jago. Her officers stated that the murdered seaman was John Lowe aged 35 years, a resident of Leeds, En-gland, who shipped at Cardiff, Wales. On the night of March 18 the crew went ashore, and, after a stroil, started to re-turn to the ship. When nearly there Lowe started back to St. Jago in company with a Cuban negro. En route they had to pass a Cuban fort, garrisoned by Spanish troops. Suddenly a sentinel sprang out of troops. Suddenly a sentinel sprang out of the darkness, and in Spanish commanded them to hait. Lowe did not understand the command and started to hurry away, but the next instant the sentinel fired and Lowe dropped down a corpse. The negro then started to run, but he, too, was shot and mortally wounded. The dead man and wounded negro were then carried inside the fort.

At daybreak Capt. Gavin of the Laurestina went to the fort and demanded the body of the man. This demand was refused, and he has made a formal complaint to the British government. An investigation is, to be made. The officers of the steamer state that when she left Cuba on March 20 the revolution was progressing quietly.

NEW YORK, March 27.—A special dispatch from Havana says that members of the Aurora and Progress clubs, two negro organizations of Puerto Principe, paraded through the public streets, after which they sent word to the governor of the province that they would help fight the insurgents if called upon to do so. Hundreds of negroes have made similar offers of their services to the government.

HAVANA PASSENGERS INTERVIEWED.

HAVANA PASSENGERS INTERVIEWED. NEW YORK, March 27.—A special dispatch from Tampa says that Havana passengers by the Olivette bring the rumor that the insurgents have taken possession of Bayaho and Manzanillo, repulsing Col. Santocilde's troops at Manzanillo with heavy loss. A Cuban general says every item of war news is almost identically the same in every paper published in Havana. The uniformity is astonishing to an American, but he says it is obtained in this way:

When the captain-general desires to give anv information about the insurrection he notifies all the newspaper offices. Reporters are at once sent to the palace, and, seated at a long table, they write at the dictation of a government official. Nothing but this official news is allowed published.

ing but this official news is allowed published by the government in Havana, he says. The Cubans vehemently deny the rumor that this is a race war.

Consoription of Cubans for military duty is being advocated by the Spanish officers in Havana, and it is believed that such a move will soon be made. About twenty-five arrived from Havana, anticipating such a movement. Their parents are anxious to have them escape such unvelcome service. Some of them say they hope to make their way into the Cuban lines from this country, but they have no desire to bear arms for Spain. There are about twenty schooners fitting out here now, ostensibly for the sponge banks, but it is not believed that this is the destination of all of them.

she remembers Bill Taylor, he having employed her father as a bartender, and she had seen him many times.

She tells how the Taylor brothers called for her father at Milan, Mo., on the night of the murder, and Meeks, his wife and three children, were bundled into a wagon and started for Taylor's farm, eighteen miles south. When within two miles of the Taylor farm, George Taylor got out of the Wagon, and shortly afterward shot and killed Meeks and his wife, and then beat them and the children over the head with rocks and kicked them to death. After committing this crime, the Taylors are said to have buried the family in a strawstack. Nellie was left for dead, but she head the Taylor brothers converse about the murder, she keeping quiet, fearing they would kill her.

When day broke she went to the farm house of a Mr. Pierce, where she told her story. A long bunt for the Taylors was inaugurated, but it was eight or nine months before they were captured in Arramsas. They had very bad reputations previous to the time the Meeks murder was fastened on them by the story told by little Nellie.

State of California.

NOTE.—THE TIMES is a seven-day paper. The above aggregate, viz., 102,375 copies, issued by us during the seven days of the past week, would, if spportioned on the basis of a six-day evening paper, give a daily average circulation for each week-day of 17,062 copies.

THE TIMES is the only Los Angeles paper which has regularly published sworn statements of its circulation, both gross and net, weekly, monthly and yearly, during the past soveral years. Advertisers have the right to know the NET CIRCULATION of the medium which seeks their business, and this THE TIMES gives them correctly, from time to time.

The gross daily average circulation of THE TIMES for January, 1895—14,657 copies, shows a gain of 118.3 per cent. over the daily average—6713 copies—for the month of August, 1890, the month of "The strike that failed."

THE HOPELESS CLASS IN COM-MUNITY.

The present age, more than any that has preceded it, is a philan thropic age, and the great problem which benevelence is studying and seeking earnestly to solve is, how best to help men to help themselves. In this lies the secret power of all true helpfulness. Never before in the history of modern civilization has the ating population of christendom been so large as it is at present. The number of men who are out of employment, who are adrift upon society, anchored to no locality through ties of business of property-ownership or of home has become so large that the question of how best to deal with them is one of the most important, yet difficult ones, that confronts the civilized world today.

York, one of the most cost colitan of modern cities, whose popation is made up of all classes, from the scum of Europe to the highest representatives of cultured manhood, has taken hold of this problem in earnest, and with the determination and hope of finding for it a practical For this purpose it has established what is known as "The Industrial Christian Alliance," whose under is Arthur W. Milbury, who is indefatigable in his efforts to help forward industrial reforms and to test, through this institution, the various methods suggested for the solu-tion of the obscure and difficult industrial problem. It is about four years since the first establishment of this New York Industrial Christian Alliance, and in the experience gained by its founders, and in the workings of the organiza tion there is much that is suggestive to other cities who are dealing with this problem of universal interest. In a recent interview held with Mr. Milbury in the office of the Review of Reviews, that gentleman classifies the cast men, cut off from friends, em ployment, self-respect and self-reliance by their sins and follies, who are a vagrant charge upon the community and a menace to society. Second, fortunately not so permanent or so prominent a factor, are the men who are homeless through no fault of their own, who plend no employment, exhausted savings, long sickness, discharge from hospitals as able to walk and when too weak to work. The third, and in many respects the saddest, is that large and apparently increasing class of men, honest, temperate and indus trious, who earn a precarious living by 'odd jobs.' These are the partially-incapacitated men, forced of regular trades by impaired sight, or hearing, or by the loss of a limb; the paralytic; the semi-invalid, who can work today and is down tomorrow, and the old man-for it is an unhappy truth that our modern industrial system demands young, alert, vigorous brain and brawn. In every thousands of this third class, mer and women, are waging a heroic fight against desperate odds, supporting themselves and supporting or contrib uting to the support of families from 'odd jobs,' netting them the year around less than 50 cents a day. To se may be added 'the incapables,' whom nature has denied something vital in their make-up-the meanis, but ne'er-do-wells of the race e alliance so far is working effy with the first class."

object of this alliance, as stated at its opening, is to furnish "a tem-porary, Christian, industrial home for friendless and fallon ss and fallen men. The only nisites for admission are a desire ad a better life, and willingnes " Men who are not willing work receive no recognition, and the motto of the alliance is, "Help-ag men to help themselves."

It is astonishing what an amount od has been accomplished dur-be four years which cover the life of this organization. It has outvn its first quarters and a buildby twenty-five feet by a hundred, to participate in them. It is to be with five stories and basement and cellar has been fitted up by the mer themselves whom the alliance shelters, men who from being homeles and idle wanderers have become self-respecting, industrious workers glad of employment, and taking pride in earning their honest dollars. The object of the work is not alone to feed, lodge and clothe men for a time, but to awaken a sense of man hood, and to quicken the spiritual life within them. Of the men who have been taken on probation a large majority have turned out well, work has been secured for them and in stead of remaining dependents upon public charity large numbers have become self-sustaining, and the les ization is that the duty of society to this class is to reach right down to them and give them encouragement and a helping hand. If the desire and the determination to do better can once be aroused, and they do not have to battle with the scum of commu nity when trying to redeem selves, the chances are that the ma jority of this class may be reformed nity that will add value to our future The experience of this alliance shows that the only really hopeles class is made up of those who refuse to work, and are unwilling to help themselves: that idleness is the paren of the worst vices and crimes of com munity, and that he who begs in preference to seeking work should be punished. For the able-bodied for vhom work can be provided, society should have but one rule: "Work o This carried out would soon settle the tramp problem to the sat isfaction of the public if not that of

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

On the occasion of the retiremen of the old board of library directors on Monday last, a number of inter esting facts in regard to the progress of the Public Library were given by G. A. Dobinson, the retiring presi dent, in his address. Mr. Dobinson showed that six years ago, when he and Mr. Howard took positions or the board, the library consisted of about 5000 volumes. Today the Los Angeles Public Library contains over 42,000 volumes. There are about 19, 000 active members and the circula tion of books last year amounted to nearly half a million.

Regarded in the light of the work that has been accomplished, the expenditures of the city on the Public Library cannot be considered as exorbitant. Last year the city dis bursements on the library amounted to $20,139 out of total city disburse ments of over $1,000,000. ter limits the appropriation for the library to 5 cents on the $100 of the floating population of the country in tax levy, but this amount has never the following manner: "First, out- yet been reached. There has been in certain quarters a disposition to crit icise every action of the retiring board of library directors and to charge them with extravagance. No proofs have been adduced to support such statements. On the other hand. any person who takes the trouble to investigate the facts of the case and to compare the expenditures of Los Angeles Public Library with those of similar institutions in other American cities will find himself forced to the conclusion that the Los Angeles library is conducted in a manner that compares favorably, as far as economy is concerned, with any other similar institution in the United States. As regards the efficiency of the library management, that is a question upon which all who have had occasion to frequently make use of the institution can testify. In addition to its value as a general educator, the Los Angeles Public Library has been and is of much assistance to students, investigators and newspaper men who from time to time have occasion to consult the ref erence department of the library and who always receive willing and intel ligent assistance from the employee

The Public Library of Los Angele is not only an institution of much value and convenience to citizens, bu it is also a most creditable advertise ment of the intelligence and enter prise of the city. The statistics of the library have frequently been commented upon by librarians of other cities, and cannot have falled to aid in spreading abroad a good impression in regard to the intelligence of a community which in some sections of the East is still regarded as more or less of a "rough and tumble" frontier in hunting up their sources of infor settlement. One of the best features of the Pub lic Library is the fact that it has so far been kept entirely out of politics Appointments and promotions of em-ployees have been conducted strictly under the civil service system, with lulu advices as saying, in reply to a question as to what disposition would examinations open to all who choose hoped-and from the personnel of the new board it is to be expected-that this excellent feature will be continued under the new management.

The patronage of the Public Library ecome so great that it is now much crowded for room.

As The Times has heretofore announced, the business associations of San Francisco have determined to join Los Angeles in the celebration of its flesta, and Santa Barbara in its flower festival. In pursuance of this generous purpose, arrangements are being made by the business organizations of San Francisco and by those of other cities of Northern California, for an excursion to Los Angeles and Santa Barbara on the occasions above referred to. The visitors will all be welcome, and Los Angeles will treat inauguration of this movement cannot be too highly commended. It is a movement calculated to aid in advancing the interests and developing the resources of all sections of California. It will enable Californians to know each other better, and to unite in harmonious action for the better ment of the whole State. This gen erous co-operation on the part of Cali fornians will afford not only to citizens of our own State, but to visitors from the East, an opportunity to see California at its best.

A single plank is altogether too nar row a platform for a political party to upon with any chance of suc cess. The 16 to 1 silver plank upon which the silver extremists propose to compel both the Democratic and the Republican parties to stand is not even wide enough to hold the few fanatics who will climb upon it, to their own destruction. The Republican party is friendly to silver, and always has been so. It is more friendly to silver than are the fanatics who would wreck the nation's finances and plunge its citizens into bank ruptcy by attempting to set up the 16 to 1 standard arbitrarily, and without the co-operation of other great nations. The silver plank of the next Republican national plat form will be such that all honest bimetallists can conscientiously indorse it. The boasted scheme of the silver extremists to split the Republican and the Democratic parties "wide open" with their single silver platform will end, as it has begun, in wind.

Everybody is ready to jump flatfooted on the Weather Observer when his weather predictions fail to predict; but no one has ever a good to say in his behalf when they do ma terialize. He occupies a position omewhat analogous to the devil, whom the Scotch minister prayed for when at the close of his long implora tion to the giver of all good things he said: "And noo let us preagh for the puir de'il, nobody ever preaght for him." Just so it is with the official weather prophet, no one has a good word to say for him, not even when he does tell the truth in ad vance. The Times, consequently, feels somewhat as the old Calvinis did, and, in view of the bountiful rains that have fallen this season on Southern California's soil, request all good citizens to join with it in an earnest invocation for the welfare and happiness of the Weather Ob-

His remarks on the Dole government and the condition of affairs in Hawaii, which are quoted in the telegraphic columns, will familiar with the course of events in the islands and the stamp of men who are shaping the destinies of the little republic. His eulogy of that good 'Christian woman," ex-Queen Liliuokalani, will even provoke a laugh. His tract more attention to himself and the book on Hawaii which he proposes to write, and to that extent he will answer the purpose of his employers, though it is poor guaranty of the value such a work might be supposed to possess for the intelligent reader.

An association of colored people composed exclusively of ex-slaves, has been formed at Atlanta, Ga. No latter-day negroes are eligible for membership. The Atlanta Journal says that the ex-slaves look with con tempt upon the rising generation of blacks; that "they cling to the past and have a tender spot in their hearts for the golden days of old," they were mere chattels, and took no thought for the morrow. All this may be. It is natural for the old to look backward with somewhat of longing to the days of youth, softened and brightened by the haze of distance. But it is very doubtful if many of the ex-slaves would willingly exchange their present freedom for shackles of the old slave-days.

Now will Hawaii demand the recall of Minister Willis? He is some improvement on Blount, but is certainly not persona grata to the Dole govern ment. There are more reasons for Willis's recall than there are for

AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

LOS ANGELES THEATER.—The weeping skies of last night wrought havor with the attendance at the Los Angeles, with the attendance at the Los Angeles, but the occasion was one of more than usual moment, for that elever study in psychology, "Judah," in which Edward S. Willard appeared here three years ago with such marked success, was the play, and in its elaboration and embellishment and in its elaboration and emberishment there appeared, as there did on the pre-vious occasion, that rarely-beautiful crea-ture, Marie Burroughs, the lady of the sad and soulful eyes.

"Judah" is not a play for the canallie;

sad and soulful eyes.

"Judah" is not a play for the canalle; there is scarcely a line in it to tickle the ears of the groundlings, but it is, nevertheless, a work of art, of consistency, dramatic coherence, and to the intelligent and studious auditor one of tense interest. One may search far through our modern dramas to discover a more unique and interesting character, and one limned by the playwright with more subtle skill than that of Vashti Dethic. And he may search still farther for a woman better fitted by nature to assume the role than is the spirituelle Californian. Marie Burroughs, who appeared in it last night. As she comes upon the scene in the first act, garbed in a simple robe of white that clings about her graceful figure, she is essentially saintly and, in her apparent frailty, almost uncanny. The part fits her so well that one can scarcely conceive of her filling any other, and she fills the senses of her auditors to the full. It is an impersonation instinct with intelligence, and, in its very artlessness, consummately artistic.

senses of her auditors to the full. It is an impersonation its very artiessness, consummately artistic.

Vashti Dethic, the arch impostor of "Judah" who, under the iron control of her "crooked" father dupes and fools her credulous victims, is quite the saint at heart that she is in form and feature. This may seem paradoxical but it is nevertheless true. Very early in the scenes does she rise in revoit against going on in her ungodly work of deception and adventure, but there stands over her the relentless parent with his threats of exposure to her lover and the world, and, more horrible still, there stalks behind her the turnlesy, and before her yawns the prison door. Thus enmeshed in fraud as she is, thus entangled in deceit and thus hounded by fear she goes on until at last her exposure comes to the very man of all men from whom she would hide her duplicity. And then, to add sharper thorns to her crown of sorrow, in order that she may be spared the public exposure that is at the threshold, he—her lover—must perjure himself, like a gentleman, too.

Through all these scenes Miss Burroughs holds one in keen sympathy. Her voice is vibrant, musical and mellow, her movements are instinct with grace, and her acting touches the heart until the eyes moisten. The company surrounding this artiste is by no means such an one as she was seen in on her previous appearance here. Yet the play is so full of interest and so much of it hinges upon the work of the leading characters that even mediocre players pass muster. Yet all her support are by no means mediocre John Kellered, who assumes the role of Judah Lewellyn, the young Welsh minister and Vashti Dethic's lover, who lies so nobly that the house rises at him, plays with rare discretion. In some particulars he is a better Judah than was Mr. Willard, he is less cold and, in the impassioned passages, rises to the occasion with splendid power. His brief scene with Prof. Jopp in act three, was excellently done. When he first comes upon the stage one feels that the lacks the ca pression is saferily dissipated and ne grows in the estimation with each succeeding scene. Louis Massen made an excelent Earl of Asgarby and Harry Barfoot, in the role of Prof Jopp, made a decided hit. Theo Brown gained applause by his quaint impersonation of Juxon Prail, the pedantic son of a pair of hoodwinked and misguided parents, and Marion Abbot was a true daughter of her astute father as Sophie Jopp. Of the other members of the support one can scarcely say more than that they might have been worse.

"Judah" will be given again tonight for the last time and is a play remarkably well worth seeing.—Tomorrow night Pinero's widely-discussed end-of-the-century

Pinero wrote "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," and his studies of the modern man and woman have caused no end of controversy and discussion. Consequently a big house may be anticipated unless the "humid showers" should work again disaster.

ORPHEUM.—The attractive bill presented at the Orpheum continues to draw large audiences to this eminently popular vaudeville theater. The programme this week is as bright and varied as could be desired. Adele Purvis does some extremely clever posing on the slack wire and juggles and dances the serpentine on the revolving globe. The Four Dies's sing a number of catchy French songs and do a novel change act that is full of dash and go. Signor Giovanni's educated cockatoos perform some remarkable tricks and Magee and Crimmins, the funny men, appear in a laughable sketch that captures the house. La Regaloncita, Delaur and Debrimont and Lillian Mason continues trong favorites and are heartily received at each performance. Matiness are announced for Saturday and Sunday. COMING ATTRACTIONS.—On Monday next at the Los Angeles Theater J. K. Emmet, "Our Fritz," will present the lovable German hero in another play, "Fritz in a Madhouse," which has had an enormously successful run of three months at the Fourteenth-street Theater, New York. "Fritz" has composed and will sing several new and beautiful songs. The play will be presented on a scale of exceptional excellence, and Mr. Emmet will be supported by a company of well-known players, chief among whom are Misses Emily Lytton, Laura S. Howe, Florence Foster, Neithe Liston, Messra. Hudson, Liston, Fred de-Yere, Thagdore deVere, Harry Coffin, Frank Wise, David Rivers, Little Baby Spencer Sinnot and others. ### THE FRIENDS.

The Yearly Meeting Now in Progress at Whittier.

Much Fervor and Cordiality Characteristics of the Gathering of the Quakers.

A History of the Quaker Church in California—The First Settlement in Pasadena Twelve Years Ago.

WHITTIER, March 27.-(Special Correspondence.) The new organization of the California yearly meeting of the Friends' Church held its first legislative session here on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The auditorium of the college was crowded to overflowing with interested hearers, and the platform was filled with visiting delegates from all parts of the United States.

to overflowing with interested hearers, and the platform was filled with visiting delegates from all parts of the United States. The California Yearly Meeting is an off-shoot from the Iowa Yearly Meeting, and the delegates from Iowa consequently have charge of the organization of this new body until it is in running order, with discipline and officers of its own.

The meeting was called to order by Cyrus Beede of Oskalosa, Iowa, chairman of the delegation from Iowa, and prayer was offered by Rev. Elwood Scott of Oregon.

Portions of the minutes of the Pasadena quarterly meeting were then read, giving a petition which had been presented to the Iowa Yearly Meeting for the separation of the California division of the church from that body, and showing the reasons for the formation of this new organization. The following officers, having been recommended by the Pasadena quarterly meeting, were then elected: Dr. W. V. Coffin, temporary presiding clerk; C. E. Tibbetts of Pasadena, reading clerk; C. E. Tibbetts of Pasadena, reading clerk; C. E. Tibbetts of Pasadena, reading clerk; Dr. W. V. Coffin then briefly adressed the meeting and read a selection from the second chapter of the Epistle to the Philliptans.

The roll of delegates was then called.

Hammacut, Harry Jordan, Rachael Morris, Bunice Jessup, Neible Houston, Sarah L. Bond.

C. E. Tibbetts stated that all sessions, both business and devotional, of the yearly meeting, would be presided over by the clerk, Mr. Coffin.

As chairman of the Committe on Programme, Mr. Tibbetts recommended the election of the following officers: Transportation clerk, T. E. Newlin; announcement clerk, Curtis E. Way; official reporter, Prof. John 'Chawner; chorister, C. C. Reynolds. These officers were duly appointed. The plan of adopting the Iowa discipline for one year, or until a committee on discipline could form a code suitable for use by the new organization, was accepted.

This meeting being the first business session, only the preliminaries for future meetings were acted upon. It was then requested that all present who attended the Iowa yearly meeting at its opening, should rise, and thirty-four persons responded to the invitation. A letter from David Tatum, a prominent Quaker of Denver, Colo., announced the death of his wife, Harriet B. Tatum, who had been a minister in the Friends' church for over forty years. Much regretful and sympathetic feeling was expressed, and a minute of sympathy was ordered to be placed upon record, a copy to be sent to David Tatum. The session was then closed with prayer by Allen Joy of Indiana Yearly Meeting.

THE EVENING SESSION.

THE EVENING SESSION. The evening was set apart for a reception meeting, to welcome those from abroad. A very large company was present, and the genial "Friends" fully lived up to the beautiful name of their church in the cordiality of their kindly greetings to everyone. The meeting was opened with a song service, led by C. C. Revnolds

Prof. C. E. Tibbetts of Pasadena then gave a brief history of the Friends' church in California.

William Hobson was the first Quaker who labored in California, his work being at San Jose about 1860. The first meeting was held in 1860, by Mrs. M. B.Tinkham at San Jose. Shortly afterward, John Scott of Baltimore held meetings in San Francisco. The first established meeting was organized by the Hobsons at San Jose in 1873.

The first settlement of Quakers in Southern California was at Pasadena in 1882; and monthly meetings were established there in 1884, the late Jeremiah A. Grenell being their first pastor. Mr. Grinell was largely instrumental in establishing every monthly meeting in Southern California. In 1887 the first quarterly meeting was established. This was followed by the organization of a meeting at Wildemar, in San Diego county; and the establishment of the Whitter the meeting, now much the strongest as to numbers of all the churches in this part of the country. Reference was was made to the founding of Whittier by A. Pickering and Jonathan Bailey. The first pastor of the Whittier church was Dr. Elias Jessup, and the present minister is T. Armstrong.

Alamitos was the next to establish a monthly meeting, which was organized in 1889, chiefly by J. Grenell. The meeting at Bong Beach, with Mary Brown as pastor, and the church at Nuevo, of which W. E. Mills is pastor, were established in 1892, and there is still another embryo church at Berkeley, which is also represented at the yearly meeting.

In all, there are eight organizations, with a present membership within the next two years. After this report, the meeting was turned into a reception, and many genial and sparkling speeches were made. Among the most notable of these was the address of Dr. William-Nicholson of Pasadona, a man of great ability and power. The other speakers of the evening were Elia C. Veeder, Allan Farquhar, Prof. Townsend, John Bond, Dr. Jessup gave a general wetcome to all. Jacob Baker, delegate from the Iowa yearly meeting, delivered a short speech to the new California branch, and remarked, in allusion to the practice of baptism introduced by some of the Friends in his State, that he was from a land of ducks, with their feathers so well olied that there was no sinking them. He closed with an earnest appeal to the newly-established meeting to be ever on the right side in all things.

Allen Jay of Richmond, delegate from the Indiana yearly meeting, then made a short, but brilliant, speech, in which he expressed the cordial good will of Indiana to California, and spoke of the vast drain made upon this great body in setting up other yearly meetings. The total membership of the meetings set up by Indiana amounted to 60,000, leaving the parent organization 18,000 members. Other speeches were made by Mary Goddard of Indiana, Dr. J. F. Hanson of Dakota, Cyrus Beded of Iowa, Elmira Dean of Kansas, J. D. Miles of Kansas, Jesse Hawkins of Wilmington, Hannah Sleeper of Kansas, Elwood Scott of Oregon, President Hiram Hadley of the University of New Mexico and Frank Meredith, delegate from the Western yearly meeting. J. Y. Hoover of Iowa offered the concluding prayer.

Cox was appointed a committee of one by Pasadena quarterly meeting to prepare articles of incorporation and by-laws for the California yearly meeting of the Friends Church. He read his report, and, after some discussion, it was unanimously adopted.

Epistles from the yearly meetings elsewhere were then read and remarked upon. The first was from North Carolina, a cordial greeting to the Friends in California. A congratulatory letter upon the establishment of a yearly meeting in Southern California came from the Friends in Dublin, Ireland, and the minutes of the Dublin yearly meeting were also read. J. H. WASHINGTON, March 27.—Advices received here state that Germany has sent and mew minister to Venezuela, who recently ceived here state that Germany has sent a new minister to Venezuela, who recently passed through New York en route to his new post. This is regarded as the first step toward adjustment, of the trouble arising over the departure from Venezuela of the ministers of Spain, Germany, France and Belgium because they united in a communication to their governments reflecting on the President and officials of Venezuela. The subject has been watched with interest by the State Department, owing to the part taken in the boundary contest between Venezuela and Great Britain.

Minister Andrade of Venezuela, one of the Venezuelan Claims Commission, has given notice of a dissenting opinion from the award of the commission made yesterday. It will not change Venezuela's purpose to pay the award according to the finding of the majority of the commission. The Congress of that country is in session, and it is expected the first installment of the award will be included in the budget this year. The treaty provides that the award is to be paid in five annual installments, each of $28,300.

DAVIS'S MILLIONS.

A CELEBRATED WILL CONTEST

The Heirs Conclude to Compre the Case Before the Lawyers Got the Whole Estate—The Will Filed.

BUTTE (Mont.) March 27.—The rumors which have been afloat for some time with reference to a settlement of the celebrated Davis will case in this city flave not been without foundation, for in the District Court today the alleged will of the dead millionaire was filed for probate.

The proponents, or Davis heirs, and contestants, represented by Henry A. Root of Helena, have been figuring on a settlement for several months, and reached an agreement yesterday; and the court has ratified the agreement by a decree which will be final unless other parties claiming an interest in the estate put in a legal appearance within a year. The heirs have asked for the appointment of J. H. Leyson, a jeweler of this city, as administrator, and Leyson has filed a petition asking the court to appoint him to the position. The petition here shows that A. J. Davis died on March 11, 1890, and left an estate of real and personal property valued at $3,000,000, consisting of bank, mining and other stocks, mortgages and securities, cash in bank, mines; real estate and personal property, and also property in Iowa and Massachusetts, and that the heirs-atlaw have requested the appointment of Leyson as administrator.

The settlement of the great legal battle was brought about by the heirs them-selves, who, after holding several Leyson as administrator.

The settlement of the great legal battle was brought about by the heirs themselves, who, after holding several conferences with this object in view, concluded that it would be better to get something out of it than to permit it to dwindle away in the hands of attorneys. While the adjustment was something of a surprise here, it created but little excitement, as it was anticipated.

THE MONTEREY TO GO SOUTH.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Orders have been sent to Mare Island, Cal., to have the United States coastship Monterey proceed to Peru. The country has been in the throes of revolution for many months, and it has been felt desirable to have a United States warship at Callao to look after American interests. It was intended to send the U.S.S. The good people of Redlands have pretty nearly made up their minds to take part in our grand coming flesta. The Times correspondent at that point says the people are enthusiastically in favor of doing so. This is just as it ought to be, and before the opening day arrives La Fiesta will have assumed all the proportions of a grand festival of Southern California.

The engineer of a fire engine was "on the carpet" yesterday for permitting his engine to make a run, in answer to an alarm, without having started the fire under the boiler. The engineer said in ex-cuse of the violation of the rule that the engine had been recently varnished, and he feared that if he started the fire it would spoil the gloss, but he intended doing it anyway when he ascertained that it would be necessary to get up steam. He was willing to risk the destruction of burning house in order to save the var-

The recent Arizona Legislature, which is the eighteenth, has adjourned after a big wrangle which almost developed into a free fight. The actions of this Legislature, as reported, remind one considerably of the thirteenth — "the thieving thirteenth" which anybody who was in Arizona ten years ago will recollect. The squabble was so violent that the Legislature failed to so violent that the Legislature failed to pass the appropriation bill, and it is probable that an extra session will have to be called, which can only be done by Congress. If Arizona expects to become a State at ought to introduce a little more dignity into its legislative body, athough, as far as that is concerned, it must be admitted that some of the States set it a poor example.

A LESSON ON CHARLOTTE RUSSE AND ANGEL FOOD.

Cooking-school Discovery that Raspberry Jam is Frequently Made of Turnips—Snow

Pudding.

It there is any one thing dearer than another to the heart of the cook, both amateur and professional, it is the concocting of toothsome dessayts, that shall be attractive to the eye as well as to that other portion of anatomy commonly considered the short cut to the masculine heart. Mrs. Ewing first initiated her expectant pupils hato the mysteries of charlotte russe, that luscious dainty supposed by Ignorant man to be largely composed of wind. But the following is Mrs. Ewing's receipt: Mix one pint of whipped cream with the whites of three eggs, which have been beaten stiff, and sweetened with three tablespoonfuls of sugar; favor with vanilla and pour into a rim of angel cake.

Caramel pudding was next discussed; this proved to be nothing more nor less than a baked custard, cooked in a pan, with a coating of caramel, which formed the sauce when the pudding was turned out. Gelatine desserts were declared to be of three forms, the jelly, the pudding or sponge, and the cream.

To make one pint of orange jelly take one-third of a box of gelatine and moisten it with one-half a cup of cold water, and allow it to stand about half an hour. Then add a cup of hot water to melt it and add, while warm, sugar, the sount of which depends upon the acidity of the orange and the taste. Strain a cupful of orange juice into the gelatine mixture, aid a teaspoonful of orange extract, or grated peel, to give the distinctive orange flavor. If peel is used it must be grated and put to soak with the gelatine and afterward strained out. All kinds of fruit juices may be used, only the amount of water must be proportioned to the strength of the juice. Strawberry juice is best when two portions of water are used with one of juice, and it is an interesting and curious circumstance that flavors are frequently not so distinctive when too condensed and rich, which was said to be on the homoepathic pellet arrangement.

tive when too condensed and rich, which was said to be on the homoepathic pellet arrangement.

Mrs. Ewing announced that she had authority for the statement that strawberry and pineapple extracts were a fiction and a fraud. The flavor is in the Juices and cannot be extracted unless contained in essential oils, as in orange peel. To the horror of the audience, Mrs. Ewing declared that a great dead of the raspberry jam is concocted from parings, turnips, or almost anything that might be handy. It was advised that the jelly be covered, set in a china or glass dish in a cool place.

Mrs. Ewing beat the whites of three eggs to a stiff froth, to which she had added a generous pinch of sait, and, mixing this froth with the forange jelly which she had beaten till it was light and foamy, pronounced it orange pedding, and said that if lemon instead of orange were used, the dish would be called snow pudding. She considers the vital point of this mixture to be the beating of the jelly. Sections of orange may be used ornamentally in the mold, and this mixture poured in to cool. To send snow pudding to table with the imprint of a corncob or sheaf of wheat upon it, Mrs. Ewing considers incongruous, and advises that it be dipped up by the spoonful and faid in a shallow dish and the boiled custard poured over it. Make the gelatine mixture as soft as possible and still have it hold, as it must not be so stiff that it has to be chewed. Remarking that she was willings to give away information for which she was unable to get pay, Mrs. Ewing said that the sauce should always be distinctly different possible and still have it hold, as it must not be so stiff that it has to be chewed. Remarking that she was willing to give away information for which she was unable to get pay, Mrs. Bwing said that the sauce should always be distinctly different from the pudding; that is, when a sweet sauce is served with a sweet pudding, the sauce is served with a sweet pudding. The orange pudding was metamorphosed into an orange cream by adding nearly a pint of whipped cream and pouring it into a rim of angel cake. Sliced cameed peaches may be made into a dainty dish by adding their syrup to the gelatine and serving with whipped cream.

A dish fit for the gods was displayed, in all its glory, a strawberry cream; inclosed in a rim of angel cake was the pale pink cream, a layer of the herries nestling cozily on the top. The audience gazed wild-eyed and hungrily at this wonderful dish, and it was passed for their delectation just in time to prevent an onslaught. One lady remarked that it was a chance of a lifetime.

Mrs. Ewing's cake-pan is her own invention, though not patented. It is seven inches square and three deep, and the tenter tube is 2 inches square and 4 deep.

Coffee cream; is one of the wicest gelatine creams; use water enough to moisten the gelatine and pour over it a strong, clear solution of coffee.

The lesson today will be the repetition of that on bread-making; tomorrow the concection of cakes and pastry will absorb the eager searchers after culinary secrets.

When this last recommendation was pre-

When this last recommendation was presented there was opportunity given for property-owners to be heard and they were heard on both sides of the question. City Attorney Dunn was called in and asked whether the board after having granted a permit to bore for oil could rescind such permit. He stated in his opinion the ordinance gives the board the power of rescinding, only in cases where the operation of the oil-boring or pumping plant creates a nulsance in violation of the ordinance.

ing plant creates a nuisance in violation of the ordinance.

Commissioner Kuhrts said that he did not care to vote to grant any more permits to bore for oil until the Cly Council passed an ordinance requiring parties operating oil wells to properly take care of the smoke and refuse.

It was finally agreed that the board, before acting on the question in hand would make a personal visit to the oil region.

It was reported by the Chief that on Sunday, March 24, at 7:45 p.m., fire alarm box No. 59 was turned in for a coal-oil fire at Libby's, well at Lakeshore avenue and Key West street. Engineer P. C. Meyers of engine, which was a violation of the orders.

fire in his engine, which was a violation of the orders.

Engineer Mevers being heard stated that he did not light the engine fire for the reason it had just been varnished the day before, and to light a fire in it would destroy the varnish. He had the torch lighted, however, and was ready to light the kindling should he see any smoke indicating a considerable fire.

Chief Moore said it was a case of serious violation of the rules. The box from which came the alarm in question was located in the vicinity of the oil wells. The rules require that fires must be lighted in engines in each case whenever the alarm is from a box within the district. This was not the only time the accused had been guilty of violating the rules.

Meyer maintained that for the several years he had been on the department he had used his judgment upon leaving the engine-house as to whether or not to immediately light a fire under the boiler. It was decided that the accused should

Among the requisitions presented was one for certain supplies for the fire-alarm system. The requisition called for one set double blocks, $3, and two patent Klein "come alongs," $4.50.

Chief Moore stated that the articles mentioned in the requisition were purchased by the city electrician about one month ago.

dissioner Vetter said that.

Commissioner Vetter said that, except in cases of emergency, requisitions for supplies ought to be first allowed and the supplies purchased afterward. Otherwise the board would have practically nothing to say as to whether or not such supplies should be purchased. It was stated by Chief Moore that he had signed the requisition, not liking to appear to be hostile to the city electrician, who seemed to have an idea that he (Moore) entertained some such feelings coward him, which he did not. He had, however, urged the city electrician to however, urged the city electrician to present a requisition in such cases where possible, before purchasing the supplies called for by it.

Maintenance of Cement Testing. WOULD HAVE MORAL EFFECT ON CONTRACTORS.

CONTRACTORS.

It is expected the City Engineer will ure it upon the City Council that some provision be made whereby he can retain the services of the man employed to make casts of cement, as is done at present under direction of the City Engineer.

As has been herecfore published, there is sparastus owned by the city, now kept in a room in the basement of the City Hall, provided for the purpose, that is used for testing both the tensile and the crush-matted. In all cases where contract work is done for the city in the way of the construction of sidewalks, the manufacture of sania pipe, or otherwise, samples of the cast under times as the contractor is not likely to anticipate, and from such samples to anticipate, and from such samples to anticipate, and from such sample subjected to tests by the apparatus above mentioned.

The man in charge of the testing keeps record of the tests made and where ment, which, although the sample of it my appear to be good, is found that an antistactor is made to use coment that will sthated a stisfactory test the structure is made to use coment that will sthated a stisfactory test.

Buch being the case contractors naturally see to it that the cement they use is of the quality that it should be, for they know not at what moment they may be asked to submit a sample. Cement which has been moistened by exposure or otherwise, and become hardened, may be ground over again, and, to the eye, it may appear to be as good as any. If it were not for the tests, therefore, the contractor might use such cement, and the fact not be developed, were it not for the testing apparatus, which very soon shows if the cement has been once "set" and ground over again.

Even though the constant making of tests of cement in use may not show the use of any that is bad, the very fact that the tests are being constantly made undoubtedly has a moral effect on contractors and keeps them from using cement of poor quality, were they inclined to do so.

The City Council, it will be remembered, ment of poor quality, were they inclined to do so.

The City Council, it will be remembered, recently passed an ordinance limiting the pay-roll of the City Engineer's department to a certain amount per month, and it is stated that the salary of the inspector of eement cannot well be included in this pay-roll. It is thought the Council will, however, endeavor to provide some means whereby this department of the city government may be maintained.

It is also suggested that all religious services held on the Sunday preceding (March 31) be made, wherever practicable, to include the singing of "America."

Kept Him Busy.

The rainy weather yesterday kept Sec-retary Dandy of the Board of Education very busy at the telephone. Nearly all the ublic schools in the city which have tele public schools in the city which have telephones are not directly connected with the central telephone office. Instead of this the wires running fram them extend to the switchboard in the office of the Superintendent of Schools, where connection may there be made with any of the other schools or with the central office. In the case of such a day as it was yesterday there are a great many people who want to send messages of one sort and another to their children who are at school. Perhaps they may want the child to wait at the school building until called for or until wraps and overshoes or umbrellas may be brought. As a result, on a rainy day the services of some one to make the desired connections are required almost constantly.

The agitation of the question of prohibiting the fencing in of streets where buildings are in the course of construction appears to have already had a good effect with contractors. It is to be observed, in some instances at least, that preparations are being made to comply with the order issued to the Street Superintendent at the last meeting of the City Council, that after next Monday the fencing-in of the roadway in such cases must not be permitted. In-stead of building materials being piled in the roadway they are being stored wit the territory covered by the building.

Should First Obtain Permits.

Building Superintendent Strange wishes to urge that parties erecting buildings should be more careful in attending to the should be more careful in attending to the matter of the taking out of permits for such building construction. In the cases of business blocks there is seldom any delinquever, but it frequently occurs where residences are erected in the out lying pretions of the city, that the builders do not attend to the matter of obtaining a permit until the building is partly or nearly finished. This is in volution of the ordinance, and it is important the permit should be obtained before commencing construction, as by so doing the records of the office may be properly kept in this particular.

The Macy-street Dam.

The flume and bulkhead, which are now in course of construction at Macy street and the river were completed yesterday to a point where it was feared that the increased flow of water in the river might cause a good deal of damage. There has been built so far about 120 feet of flume. The construction at that point is for the purpose of diverting water, as herefore, from the river for use in a part of the city irrigating system. Most of the water taken from the river for purposes of flushing the outfall sewer is taken at that point, there being a device so arranged that water may be drawn out from some distance above the bottom of the dam in such a way as to prevent any considerable quantity of sand and dirt being taken with it. For flushing the outfall this is an important feature for the sand flowing in the sewer is most of it deposited in the settling chamber near Agricultural Park and the removal of it, as is at times necessary involves. to a point where it was feared that the settling chamber near Agricultural Park and the removal of it, as is at times neces-sary, involves a considerable expense.

Overflow from the Outfall.

Just as City Engineer Compton was eaving his office vesterday afternoon he received a message by telephone stating that the rain had so much increased the volume of flow in the outfall sewer that it was running over at the settling chamber. The City Engineer drove immediately to the scene of the reported overflow.

JUDGE CLARK DECIDES A COUPLE OF CLD PARTITION SUITS.

Judge W. H. Clark rendered his decision yesterday in the old case of John M. Barker et al. vs. J. A. Barker et al., an action brought to obtain a partition of the N.E.14 of the N.E.14 of section 5, T. 3 S., R. 13 W., S.B.M., and lots 3 and 4 of section 33, T. 2 S., in the same range, ordering that findings and an interlocutory decree be entered in accordance with a lengthy opinion filed therein. lengthy opinion filed therein.

The original complaint and lis pendens were filed on October 28, 1878, but the case was allowed to rlumber, and no active steps were taken until the year 1893.

It has now narrowed to an issue between John M. Barker and his wife, upon the one side, and Juan and Mardoniano Abila upon the other, and the principal question presented is whe'her the said Abilas have title to any part of the premises as tenants in common. The source of title is a question in 1864, intending to claim the same under the Federal homestead or pre-emption laws. At that time no official survey had been made or plat filed, and it was uncertain whether the land was or was not within the exterior boundaries of a certain Mexican grant known as the Ramcho Tajauta. This uncertainty continued until 1874, when it was ascertained that the lands were a pert of the public domain. Meantime, in 1868, J. S. Barker, who had made no entry in the United States Land Office as pre-emptor or otherwise, died, leaving surviving him his widow, Maria Marron, and six children. In 1870 the widow married the defendant, Juan Abila, and the other defendant is the issue of that marriage. In 1872 Mrs. Abila died, and the Abilas, father and son, removed from said land, leaving the Barker children in possession. In October, 1874, one of them, John M. Barker, filed his declaratory statement, and in July, 1878, made final entry in the United States Land Office at Los Angeles. The proceedings had in the land office involved a contest, and the patent finally issued as before stated.

The court is of the opinion that while the history of the case shows but little equity in the Abilas, they did take under the common.

The other questions involved, the court holds, need not be discussed at length.

The plea of the statute of limitations cannot be sustained, as it is only necessary, in an action for partition, that the plaintiff file a notice of the pendancy of the action.

cannot be sustained, as 16-13 only necessary, in an action for partition, that the plaintiff file a notice of the pendancy of the action.

In determining the question of the portions to which the parties are respectively entitled, the court thinks that the doctrine of community property cuts no figure. It is held, therefore, that Juan Abila is entitled to an undivided ninth of the whole, and his son, Mardoniano, to an undivided eighteents: or, if the portions be both set off in common, they are entitled to one-sixth of the whole.

It is held that an accounting between the parties will be necessary, but as some of the questions that may be involved. In the taking of an account have not been fully argued, no decision is now considered necessary. These, however, can be determined at any time before final judgment. The case of Juan Abila et al. vs. T. Ferlin was submitted upon the evidence and briefs filed in the Barker case, and it is ordered by Judge Clark that findings and an interlocutory decree be entered in accordance with the opinion therein filed.

The court says, funther, in a supplemental opinion: "The fact that the children of J. S. Barker, after the patent had been issued, conveyed the land involved in this action in payment of the attorney's fee incurred in the contest in the land office that preceded the issuance of the patent, can make no difference. Even admitting plaintiff to be liable for his proportionate part of such fee under the provisions of sec. 798, Code of Civil Procedure, his cotenants had no legal power to convey the joint property in payment thereof.

"No such legal services for the common benefit have yet been rendered in this action, as would justify the court in awarding an attorney's fee under the provisions of sec. 796, Code of Civil Procedure, his corenits had no legal power to convey the joint property in payment thereof.

"The plaintiff topin this point is not such as to carry weight with the court. This question, however, may await determination until the commissioner or commis

HER DEMURRER OVERRULED. When Carrie Williams appeared before Judge Smith yesterday morning to plead to the charge of having assaulted George Green with a deadly weapon on March slast, her counsel presented a demurrer to the information against her. The ground relied upon was that the information did not state facts sufficient to constitute a public offense. At the close of the argument, however, the court overruled the demurrer, and the defendant thereupon entered her place of not guilty and weaponers. tered her plea of not guilty, and was o dered to appear for trial on May 13 next.

TROUBLE IN WILMINGTON.

TROUBLE IN WILMINGTON.

Speech and Hearing Restored to a Mute Tramp.

Anton Peters of Wilmington is in a peck of trouble, and on account of his having attempted to assist an officer in the execution of his duty.

About 9 o'clock in the evening of Thursday, March 14 last, Peters discovered that five tramps had taken possession of his barn, and called upon Constable T. M. Mathews to eject the tresspassers. When called upon to vacate the premises, the tramps laughed at the officer and openly defied him. He thereupon placed them under arrest, and as they showed fight, called upon a number of citizens to assist him in taking the tramps into custody. Each of the posse picked out a prisoner, and, as it happened, Peters tackled the most pugnacious of the lot. After the fellow had struck him three times, and was getting the better of him, Peters pulled a gun from his pocket and struck the combative tramp on the head with it. As it happened, the pistol turned in Peters's hand so that the tramp was struck by the hammer, and the gun was discharged. The tramp exclaimed that he was shot, and Constable Mathews, upon examining the man's head and finding that he was shot, and Constable Mathews, upon examining the man's head and finding that he was bleeding, sent for Dr. Edgar Seaman, who cursorlly examined the wound and dressed it. When taken before Justice Downing, the tramp entered his plea of having obtained money by false pretenses, and was sent to the County Jail for seventy-five days. On March 22 the tramp's condition became so critical that Dr. Brainard, was called in, and upon examination, he pronounced him as suffering from a fracture of the skull. He was removed to the County Hospital, and a complaint was filed in the Township Court by Sheriff Burr, charging Peters with an assault with a deadly weapon, upon which he was arrested. His case was set for examination tomorrow, Friday, and meantime he was remanded to the County Jail in default of bail.

Fred Schweizer of Wilmington writes a communication on this subject to communication on this subject to The Times, and takes occasion to protest vigorously against the action of the Sheriff (who, it appears, acted under advice of the District Attorney) claiming that it is an injustice to prosecute Peters for thus defending his property and body from the tramp. "Our town has been overrun by vagrants and hobos," he says, "and the life and property of our citizens are in constant danger. The man that was beaten over the head went about town with a paper stating that he was deaf and dumb and wanted assistance to get something to eat. He got quite a sum of money from some of our citizens, but when Peters beat him over the head he could talk and hear as well as anybody."

APOLEON BONAPARTE'S FIRST CAM-PAIGN. With Comments by Herbert H. Sargent, U.S.A. (Chicago: A. C. Mc-Clurg & Co.)

Sargent, U.S.A. (Chicago: A. C. Mo-Clurg & Co.)

Since the opening of the Napoteonie craze, which has seized upon the people and swept down upon our magazine literature like an epidemic, nothing perhaps has been written touching "The Man of Destiny" that will really be more helpful and suggestive than the work before us. It object is not so much to laud the greatness and deeds of Napoleon, as to present his campaigns in such a way as to enable the military student to best study and understand the tactics employed in his campaigns. Says the writer: "To obtain a knowledge of the science of war the military student should study the campaigns of great commanders. The history of these campaigns, written with care, would be a complete treatise of the art of war." And it is as a study "from a stategical point of view" that this work will best interest the military student. The story of Napoleon's military file is interestingly set forth, and the comments of the author are valuable and suggestive.

Magazines of the Month.

Magazines of the Month.

Post Lore, which, of course, is a Boston product, is a genuinely interesting magazine to every lover of verse. Among the attractive features of the current number we instance: "Tennyson's Songs—A Note of Lyric Poetry," by Louis James-Bleck, "The Environments of Literature in Ancient Rome," by Prof. William Cramston Lawton; "The School of Literature" and "Notes and News" are departments that are ably conducted and full of interest.

Donahoe's Magazine contains the usual number of carefully-written articles, and some finely executed filtustrations. The leading article is contributed by the Hon. William B. Rice, chairman of the commission appointed by the Governor of Massachusetts on the subject of "Greater Boston," who presents a graphic picture of the growth of the great cities of the world, and draws from his facts the conclusion that the present methods of municipal government are a failure, and suggests the federation plan suggested by the governments of London and Paris as a solution of present difficulties.

Demorest's for April is an especially interesting number. One of its most delightful articles is "Miestic Reminiscences," which is fully illustrated and vividly describes life in that ancient land. Its fashon department will be satisfying and helpful to its lady readers.

Harper's Bazar for the 16th inst. is an excellent issue, and one that its lady readers will feel that they could not well do without.

The Interior, Chicago, celebrates its twenty-fifth anniversary by publishing a handsome issue of seventy-six pages, copiously illustrated. It is exceedingly interesting, and its one of the best religious publications in the country.

The Magasine of Poetry for the current month is filled with notable single poems from the pens of numerous English authors. It is finely illustrated, and contains between its covers some rare treastains between its covers some rare treas-ures of verse. Among its contributions are some whose names are not well known to Americans, but the introduction here given will awaken the desire for fuller acquaint-ance, and Mr. Moulton deserves the thanks of poet lovers for the presentation offered through the pages of his magazine.

Fiske's "History of the United States" for schools contains a picturesque portrait of Joseph Brant, the most remarkable Indian known to history, Mr. Fiske says of him: "He was well educated, a devout member of the Episcopal church, and translated the prayer book and parts of the New Testament into the Mohawk language. This combination in him of missionary and war chief was quite curious."

Houghton, Miffin & Co. will publish, very soon, "The Story of Christine Rochefort," a novel by Mrs. Helen Choate, the famous lawyer.

"The Daughters of the Revolution" is a historical story (largely history on a thread of romance) by Charles Carleton Coffin, who aims to show how ardent and effective was the patriotism of the women of the Revolution. It will appear shortly from the Riverside Press.

Richard Harding Davis, who started from the eastern coast of Honduras about the middle of January to ride across Central America, has arrived at Tegucigalpa, the capital of Honduras, from which place he will continue on to the capital of Nicaragua, and from there to Corinto, on the Pacific side. From that point he takes a steamer south to Caracas in South America, crossing the Isthmus of Panama on his way. The mide to Tegucigalpa was made on muleback over the mountains, and lasted sixteen days; the second half of the trip to Corinto will require about ten days more. Mr. Davis is accompanied by Henry Somers Somerset and Lloyd C. Griscom, and his purposa is to describe the places visited by these gentlemen and himself in a series of articles which will appear in Harper's Monthly and Harper's Weekly as soon as possible after his return to New York.

A talk with the author of "Trilby." George Du Maurier, wherein with the same frank kindliness and good-fellowship that have made "Trilby" the most popular novel of the period, he tells the story of his adventurous life, and how he became an artist, and, later. a novelist, and how he draws and how he writes, will appear, with portraits and other pictures, in McClure's Magazine for April.

The Overland for April will be well worth reading. Among other things considered in its pages is "The Jew." by Gustav Adulf Danziger, from the Hebrew standpoint, while Mrs. D. W. Nesfield considers him from a Gentile point of view. The pagers are well worth the careful consideration of the reader.

up, when the blood is watery and impure when the liver is torpid, when the kidneys are inactive, nature rebels. Nature being at war with itself something must be hurt, and too often the head aches.

You can always tell when a headache is coming on. A dull, heavy sensation, brow sations, nausea, constipation of the bowels highly colored urine, sleeplessness, all show that the liver, kidneys and stomach are in active and that the blood is impoverished Don't you know the blood is made up of serum, red and white blood corpuscles, also earthy phosphetes? Good blood must have a specified amount of each of these component parts. When the blood is good and healthy blood, and the liver, kidneys and stomach are daily doing good work, the man or woman is buoyant, happy and enjoying good health. When the blood is impure and the stomach, liver and bowels inactive you must of necessity feel blue, feel dendent, feel melancholy, feel weary, feel pains in the back and sides. For these conditions the Home Remedy, the Cupboard Remedy, Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla is truly and really a specific. It is simply and strictly a chemical combination of purely vegetable herbs, having no mineral drugs whatsoever. There are no mercury, no iodide of potassium, no deadly drugs. The ordinance was drawn by Judge M. T. Owens, who is one of the flesta advisory board, and was framed to accomplish the purpose stated, not to interfere with the legitimate carnival revels, in which masking cuts an important figure.

There is no State law against such masking, that law being framed to prevent violations of the criminal law, and applying only to its infraction by persons seeking, to evade arrest, who have committed some crime. This year people generally will join in the masking, and many costumes have already been secured by people for that purpose.

THE FIESTA RACES.

Most of the State's Crack Thoroughbreds Entered.

Everything seems to indicate that Los Angeles will have a race meeting during La Flesta week that will not only prove an attraction to the expected throng of visi-tors, but also to all lovers of racing about the city. The entries to the stake events to be decided at Agricultural Park, have to be decided at Agricultural Park, have closed. They are quite numerous, and prove that horsemen with good horses can be attracted to this city at any time, when good-sized stakes are offered.

More than one hundred horses will come from San Francisco, and they represent the cream of the thoroughbreds that have raced this winter at the Bay District track. The Newton handleap, probably the most interesting event, barring the La Flesta derby, that will be decided, has filled remarkably well. When such horses as the Spreckels trio, Cadmus, Candid and Bridai Vell, meet on equal terms with those like Mr. Jingle, Thelma, Midas, Articus, at which we have a considered ones, a race will result that will be worth going miles to witness. Cadmus is probably the best handleap horse in America.

ones, a race will result that will be worth goling miles to witness. Cadmus is probably the best handleap horse in America, as his race with Lissak, the great Kentucky colt, proved. It is to hoped that handleapper Ben Benjamin will not think too lightly of his chances. Cadmus, with the weight he should carry, will have no easy thing with many of the horses entered in the race.

La Fiesta dery, which is to be run on Wednesday, April 17, will bring together the State's crack three-year-old cobts and fillies. Galiant is probably the best of the Spreckels lot, but Dow Williams's Midas has been showing such form at San Francisco, that he seems to have a most excellent chance. Hanford, a Southern California, has run some very good races, while Pisyful in the first part of the San Francisco meeting beat the best two-year-olds at that track.

As the entries or the stakes form only a portion of the aggregation of racing stock coming here for the meeting, it seems that on April 13, the opening day at Agricultural Park, at least 250 stalls will be occupied. This ought to permit of from eight to ten horses contesting in each race.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

And Now Comes Debs.

And Now Comes Debs.

LOS ANGELES, March 27.—(To the Editor of The Times.) The wider the doors are opened by "Uncle Sam" to our ports of entry, and the louder he yells to all the nations of the world in his generous invitations for them to make this their dumping ground for all their vicious, and drone element, the greater will be the number of carbuncles and the intensified deranged condition of his system, that now begins to show the great need of a thorough purging. Otherwise history repeats itself in medicines as in the rise of all the nations. Along this line of thought we have had experiences that ought to teach us a lesson while the remedy is yet at hand. This gathering of "bile," as it were, on one national system, begins to assert itself. Instead of producing biliousness and the like it produces fakirs, demapogues, political tricksters, fire-brands, Anarchists, Socialists, Single-taxers and the like. They differ as does a cold from the smallpox, but all being proof of a deranged system. The Maña at New Orlenas a few years ago was one of the evidences of "congestion;" Coxey and Browne leading the army "on the grass" were bad symptoms, and if "Carl" is not elected Governor of some Eastern State before he returns home he must retrieve his fortune by "lecturing" at popular prices as a renowned hero; so we may expect him later. In the wake of Henry George (who denounced in the most bitter terms ohe of the very few good deeds done by Mr. Cleveland, namely, the calling out of troops to suppress the Debs robellion) we geten have "lectures" (at the current

THE END AT HAND.

Both Sides Rest in the Duncan Libel Case.

The Full Malignity of that Evil Eye Revealed by the Plaintiff Yesterday.

An Argument in Support of a Motion to Instruct the Jury to Find for the Defendant was Begun.

B. Duncan was heavily handleapped in the early hours, yesterday, by not having the assistance of counsel. Attorney Brunson did come into court in the afternoon and remained long enough to examine the plaintiff, but he looked careworn and ill, and when his client was retired from the witness stand he left the courtroom. The plaintiff has, on more than one occasion announced his ignorance of the legal prac tice in California, and it is a constan source of surprise to the legal lights who drop in and out of the courtroom, that the practice of the Kentucky courts, with which plaintiff is familiar, should be at

The plaintiff commenced his rebuttal testimony by summoning to the witness stand L. D. Biddle, the present manager of the Socialists Co-operative Store and Productive Association. His memory was very bright as to what transpired at meeting held in the San Fernando et hall, but in general outline he tes myself, invited a number to attend "I, myself, invited a number to attend that meeting. I saw Mr. Duncan coming out of a store on San Fernando street and the suggestion was made that we had better go to the hall. Some men had been to see him and thought action might be taken to secure back pay. He had come to secure power of attorney enabling him to take action. I was chairman of the meeting and on my suggestion the matter to take action. I was chairman of the meeting and on my suggestion the matter was referred to the Board of Mediation." At this point witness's memory failed him to such an extent that plaintiff remarked in a semi-satirical manner: "Witness's memory is not good."

"We object," said Mr. Gage, championing the witness's cause, "to counsel making flings at his own witness."

"I don't remember the plaintiff asking for men to throw rocks. I remember something regarding the plan of Mr. Duncan with regard to attaching the rolling stock of the railroad company."

The witness stated that there was no excitement whatever around the San Fernando station; that the men were quiet and did not interfere with the depot.

"Was there was nerfect quiet from July list to the 5th?" insimuatingly queried the plaintiff.

"Yes there was perfect quiet, and I saw.

"Yes, there was perfect quiet, and I saw the men every day. I saw no violence

"Was there anything erratic on the part of the plaintiff?" and Mr. Duncan took a suck at the same old lemon and awaited a reply.

A laugh went around the court, in which plaintiff joined, remarking, "I don't know how to get at it in any other way."

"Its a rather erratic question," volunteered Mr. White. The plaintiff answered his question by asking if there "was any boasting," bu got knocked out on an objection.

got knocked out on an objection.

Under cross examination witness stated that he was financial secretary of the Socialist Labor party; that he was personally interested in the strike, being at that time a machinist in the Southern Pacific shops. He again rehearsed what he remembered as having been said and done at the meeting held on San Fernando street, and concluded by saying: "I was engaged in furthering the interests of the strikers from June 28 until—well, I'm out yet."

George J. Klotze, who was also at the San Fernando-street meeting, testified to having, with one or two others, asked plaintiff how they could get their back pay. He outlined briefly the advice given and then said: "I came in on June 28 off my run and at Colton heard that a strike was on. I told my wife, and next day my partner and myself put on our uniforms to go out again and went down to the Arcade Depot. I saw Superintendent Muir and Mr. Prior and then went home. I then said I wouldn't put on my uniform again until the strike was settled, and as it never has been settled I'm out yet." Upon cross-examination witness "Upon cross-examination witness ceded that he had no trouble with the out on his individual responsibility organization to which he belonge was not in sympathy with the A.R.U.

A recess was taken for five minutes and A recess was taken for five minutes and upon court reconvening Isaac Ross, who, with Stanwood. Cline and Johnson, were convicted in the Federal court of conspiracy, was put upon the stand. He gave a recapitulation of what had been previously testified to, and estimated the number present at the San Fernando-street meeting at about 100 to 125 persons. He heard the plaintiff speak, but could not say much about it. He stated that he was a member of the Mediatino Committee, and that the papers brought by plaintiff to have signed by the strikers were torn up by the committee.

Mediation.

P. K. Wood was the next witness to testify, and announced himself as the acting State secretary of the Farmers' Alliance.

"I knew the plaintiff intimately." he said, "and from June 28 on I saw him every day. I didn't know of all his actions, but knew some and heard of others. Invariably plaintiff advised the men to be peaceful and law-abiding, at least in my presence. The question was asked him if the men had the right to arm themselves and turn themselves into military companies. He told them that though they had the right to do so, if all their sympathizers came to their assistance still he would advise them not to do so. The government could raise an army that would wipe them out of existence in thirty days. One person said he would be willing to shed the last drop of his blood in the people's cause, and plaintiff told him that his blood wasn't wanted. That it was not necessary and that kind of talk did no good. With regard to the meeting at Hazard's Pavilion, I helped to raise money for the rent of the hall. We purposely had plaintiff occupy the time in speaking in order to prevent those fire-eaters from uttering words that would have provoked a riot, and so we wanted to keep them of the platform. There was a good deal of excitement caused by the strike, and there was some fear that a conflict might take place between the strikers and the military forces.

MORE DEPOSITIONS OFFERED.

MORE DEPOSITIONS OFFERED. At this point plaintiff offered a batch of epositions taken in Louisville, Ky., all depositions taken in Louisvine, ky, an bearing on his general reputation. An objection was made to the introduction of these documents as his general reputation had not been impugned in any way. Plaintiff claimed that he had been accused of inciting to violence, which was in itself a crime.

"We may have proved crime," interected Mr. White. "We have alleged none."
"We have not offered a scintilla of evilence bearing on plaintiff's general repuation," added Mr. Gage.
"You have alleged specific acts," somevhat indignantly answered plaintiff, adling: "I don't know what you call crime."
Which seemed true.
"It is useless to bolster up your characer," middly suggested the ccurt, "when it has not been attacked, and so I will sustain the objection."

Disconsolately the batch of depositions were rolled up and again confided to the tender care of the clerk of the court.

The plaintiff then made an appeal to the court. "May it please the sourt." he began, "the gentleman I engaged to be here and examine me on the stand seems to have gone out. Attorney Brunson is now at the hotel and will be here this afternoon and I would ask that we adjourn until that time."

"Our disposition," said Mr. White, "is to accommodate the other side, and further-more we realize the embarcassment he would labor under in trying to examine

Albeit it was half an hour from the noon hour court then adjourned until 1:30. AFTERNOON SESSION.

Upon reconvening in the afternoon Mr. White intimated that while he felt as-sured he was right in the stand taken, yet the defense was inclined to waive gen-eral objections to the depositions. eral objections to the depositions.
Attorney Brunson being in court, plaintiff took the stand to be examined in his own behalf. His counsel was apparently suffering, his voice in putting the questions to witness being scarcely audible. The plaintiff stated that he is 68 years of age, and first came to California in 1887, in consequence of the ill-health of his wife and daughter.

quence of the ill-health of his wife and daughter.

"What has been your relation with the members of the bar at Los Angeles?" inquired Attorney Brunson.

"Those to whom I have been introduced have been very cordial."

"I am not."

"I am not."

"I considered it a term of reproach, contumely and opprobrious."

Objection to this was made by the defense on the ground that plaintin had alleged no meaning in his complaint, and it formed no part of his pleadings. If it has a settled meaning then there remained no reason to draw from witness an expression of his personal interpretation.

The objection was overruled and plaintiff proceeded with his definition.
"It is not down in any dictionary." he proceeded with his definition.

"It is not down in any dictionary," he said, "to tell me the meaning, it being a slang term, and I have not been in California a sufficiently long time to know the precise meaning. I am told, however, it is in the nature of an unmitigated liar. I have heard the expression, but it is not in the dictionary."

Mr. White moved that the words relating to an unmitigated liar be stricken out, as no such meaning had been ascribed to the word in the complaint. Motion granted.

PLAINTIFF TELLS HIS STORY

PLAINTIFF TELLS HIS STORY. The plaintiff then proceeded: "I at-ended a small meeting on San Fernando street, where some men were assembled whom I did not know. I spoke to them for about twenty minutes, and at the meet-ing held in Hazard's Pavilion I spoke for about two hours of the meeting held in Hazard's Pavilion I spoke for for about twenty minutes, and at the meeting held in Hazard's Pavilion I spoke for about two hours on the questions of the day. Mr. Benedict testified to some things that did not occur, for example, he spoke of my calling for men to throw rocks, which assertion, however, he qualified so to make the statement less objectionable. I stated to the men whether the decision of the court was founded properly or not the order of court would have to be obeyed. If brought up for contempt and ounishment enforced it would be set aside by the Superior Court. I told them I did not think the court had been justified in punishing men without a jury in an equity proceeding, but that that was not for them to consider. The either belonged to the railroad or they did not. If they did they should go to work, and if not that it would be wiser for them to go in sufficient number and intimate that their relations with the company were severed. I had prepared a power of attorney to represent them not as an organization, but as individuals, and if they appointed me to represent them in all matters in the Federal courts in the injunction proceedings I told them I would prepare myself by seeking admission to practice. In saying this I made no attack on the men—good men they then had, Mr. Waters and C. C. Stevens, but I was prepared, if they were law-abiding, to say to the court: "These men whose names are attached were not railroad employees, and were not in contempt."

contempt.'"
Plaintiff denied ever having incited the strikers to acts of violence, and then coun-sel switched his client off to a more ineresting branch of examination.
Plaintiff stated that in addition to the articles read, about seventeen others had been published between the summer of 1889 and August, 1891. His acquaintance with Col. Otis began in the summer of 1888 and ended on June 14, 1892. Between those dates their personal relations were cordial.

"What was the reason of the difference

"What was the reason of the difference that came between you?" inquired counsel.

"The reason of the difference was the publication of an editorial in The Times of June 14, 1892, in which—"
Objection was made that the article itself was the best evidence. The objection was sustained, and Mr. White reminded plaintiff that the defense had proffered the use of the files of the Times office, but no notice had been given until that moment that ce had been given until that moment that they were needed.

Resuming, plaintiff stated: "It is not true that I was ever intimate with Le Veen in February, 1894. I went to the Express office to revise some proofs, and ther learned that he was city editor. During the Presidential election I never saw him wrote the first editorial for the Express December 5, 1892, and the last on May

"How many articles that you wrote were published as editorials?"
"I should say I wrote about eight or nine editorials and about thirty other articles—special correspondence. I saw Le Veen about twenty or thirty times between the time of Cleveland's election and May, 1893." THAT OYSTER JOINT.

"Mr. Le Veen styled your place an oyste toint " said Attorney Brunson: "what kind of a place was it?"

"When I first commenced on December 23, 1891, I opened in the Broadway Market and remained during the winter until the oyster season was over in 1892. I afterward opened a place on Main street. I rented a large house and sold oysters both wholesale and retail, and also served them at the counter or to ladies in rooms beat the counter, or to ladies in rooms be

"No: nor were liquors sold; only cigars."

"Except bread," volunteered Mr.
White.

"No." corrected plaintiff, "we didn't sell the bread, we gave away the bread, butter and coffee."

"An article published in the People's Union, entitled Māl d'Occhio contained certain facts; are they true?"

"That portion written by myself, and that extract from a Louisville paper, are true; the other portion taken from The Times is not precisely correct."

"An article was also read-on Falb's predictions. Who is Falb'?"

"He is a man of "great learning in Europe. He has made a study of the actions of the planets and has found that when intensified by eclipses they produce great storms."

Plaintiff gave.a catalogue of woe resulting from planetary combinations, and concluded by stating that he had found Falb's predictions almost literally verified. Being questioned as to his prophetical powers he denied the flattering assumption.

"I never made it a profession to prophesy. My calculations and analyses have been deduced from my knowledge of

"I never made it a profession to prophesy. My calculations and analyses have been deduced from my knowledge of men, parties and nations governed by ambition or other things. I have studied out these things from information furnished me by reliable people throughout the country, and in this way gave my opinion to the country."

That concluded the examination of the plaintiff, but it was more interesting when Mr. White drew from him some very interesting facts on oross-examination.

"You have brought a number of suits yourself and as trustee, have you not colonel?" cheerfully began Mr. White.

"I brought one, which I won, in Judge Van Dyke's court, and one, which I also won, in the United States court. There is a personal suit against the Southern California Railroad pending, and I have brought the present suit and one against the Express and have three others pending in the courts. I brought suit against Judge Ross just to have an opportunity to defend myself. Yes, I knew I would be defeated."
"How many-libel suits, in brief, have

"How many-libel suits, in brief, have you brought since residing in the city?"
"One against the Santa Fe system and two against newspapers."

THE MAL D' OCCHIO. Counsel drew the attention of witness to the Mal d'Occhio article, wherein th truth of the Times excerpt was indorsed by himself. He was asked why, if it was untrue as he had previously asserted, he had not corrected it before republishing it in the People's Union.

"I did not think it necessary to correct it." was the only reason witness would

"I did not think it necessary to correct it," was the only reason witness would make. He proceeded, however, to give quite an interesting history of the Evil Eye, a subject of more than ordinary interest when three of his own counsel are laid out by the heels by sickness, and one witness who testified for the defense is in the same parlous condition. And this not to mention the rheumatic twinges that Mr. White pleaded guilty to yesterday, or others concerned in the twinges that Mr. White pleaded guity to yesterday, or others concerned in the case who are afflicted with incipient influenza, and at intervals rush from the court in order to sneeze the roofs of their heads off in preference to being found guilty of contempt inside the judicial boundaries.

guilty of contempt inside the judicial boundaries.

"Mal d'Occhio, or the Evil Eye," wit-ness began, "has been handed down from Greece, through the Romans." He didn't explain if it is the same old eye inherited, under the law of primogeniture, as a kind of family heirloom with the family togs.

kind of family heirloom with the family toga.

"It is believed that certain powers are inherent in some people, and these singular powers are in some cases unknown to the possessor. Damage is not only worked to those hostile to the personage having this strange power, but death sometimes to those dearly loved. It is one of those strange things that those who believe in a supreme, providence are willing to leave among the mysteries we cannot fathom."

"Well, Webster defines it as 'a supposed power of witching,'" said Mr. White, "and the Century dictionary defines it as 'a baleful faculty superstitiously ascribed to certain individuals.' You say the person having this power injures those he don't want to?"

"That is the belief. The Marquis of Bute is now making an exhaustive inves-tigation at heavy expense to get all the information possible on the point."

"It is a fact that this mysterious facty pursued you?"
"Yes, sir."

The witness spoke with such assurance that some present moved away a trifle and felt as if cold water was flowing down the "Is it true that this faculty pursuing you has strewn your pathway with forty-siz deaths?"

DREADFUL MORTALITY. "I said my path had been strewn with forty-six deaths of people who tried to of yeslx deaths of people who tried to wrong me. These deaths were generally of people in litigation. My attention was attracted by one after the other dying."

There was something very gruesome in the witness "bunching" a whole lot of deaths under the word "generally," as if one or two, more or less, didn't cut any particular figure with an optic of his particular calibre. Fortunately Mr. White cut short examination on this point, and saved the nerves of at least some present. Counsel next drew witness's attention to an article or prophecy. After examining it he reproved Mr. White for his lack of biblical knowledge, by saying: "That is not my prognostication, but from the Bible." Counsel drew witness's attention to the innumerable little hands sprinkled through the article, but Attorney Brunson objected, and when witness persisted in answering his counsel appealed to the court to instruct him to abstain from answering, pending an objection.

"You say Falls is a rather accurate cal-swering, pending an objection.

"You say Falb is a rather accurate calculator?" again questioned Mr. White.

Being asked why that tidal wave had not kept its engagement and separated Lower California from the continent, wit ness confessed that he had been betrayed ness confessed that he had been betrayed into making a misstatement by taking a telegram from the Ean Francisco Chronicle and basing his calculations on that. Shortly afterward he received Falb's yearly calendar, and found out his mistake. As to the submarine volcano that was to have finally, conclusively and for all time to have settled the monarchical question in the Hawaiian Islands witness stated that there is about 8,000,000 miles of Pacific Ocean—about half the globe—and he thought it just as likely that there would be a submarine "bust-up" on this half of the world as the other. A case of sending some millions of the dusky race over the divide, on general principles. "Did you make arrangements to move your belongings?" inquired counsel.

"Did you make arrangements to move your belongings?" inquired counsel.

The inquiry was objected to and the objection sustained.

Witness proceeded to state that an earthquake did arrive on August 30 "in vast degree," but he and Falb were not in accord on some astronomical were not in accord on some astronomical was degree," but he and Falb were not in accord on some astronomical matters, and as both can't be right one is bound to be wrong. The quake on August 30, instead of giving realism to a life on the ocean wave on this side of the world, went cavorting up the Mediterranean and knocked things generally out of time in Greece.

HIS LAW PRACTICA.

"You say you are not in practice?" inquired Mr. White.
"No sir."
"You meant excepting, of course, attending to your own personal calendar."
Witness reverted to the question of law involved in the proceedings taken against the strike; s, and said that the action of the court had been reversed by Justice Harlan of the United States Supreme Court. "What's that?" queried Mr. White, pricking up his ears.

Witness repeated the assertion.
"He's done nothing of the kind," said counsel.
"Then I can't read," exclaimed the witness.

The plaintiff was ratired, and the defense again made formal withdrawal of all objections to the introduction of the depositions, and consented to their being admitted in evidence without being read. That didn't suit the plaintiff, however; he wanted to give the jury a treat, and he did.

The depositions had been taken in Van wanted to give the jury a treat, and he did.

The depositions had been taken in Kentucky, and spoke to the general good character of the plaintiff, arti incidentally to the general bad views he held on financial questions. Having been read. Mr. White stated to the court that he wanted to make a motion, and as it would take some time to argue it, that it might be well to adjourn until today. Plaintiff also desired that course to be taken, as his attorney had been compelled to retire.

"You won't need the jury, will you?" inquired Judge York.

"No, I guess they'll be crucified by our arguments," responded Mr. Gage.

"But can Attorney Brunson be here in the morning?" inquired Mr. White.

"Oh, yes, I'll doctor him and have him here on time in the morning," answered the plaintiff.

Judge York dismissed the jury, but insisted thet counsel should proceed to make and argue on his motion until the ordinary hour for adjournment.

Mr. Gs/ge then made a motion to instruct the jury to find for the defendant in the following terms:

"(j) The plea of justification herein made has been fully supported and established, and the article in question, so far as it may reflect upon plaintiff, is, and when published was, substantially true in all its material parts."

Mr. White opened the argument on the motion, and proceeded to sustain claims set forth by a close and logical examination of the complaint itself as drawn by the plaintiff. In the course of his address he maintained that the alleged libel was not half so bad as counsel suffered by reproduction of what purported to be their portraits in the newspapers. "And yet," said he, "we do not avail ourselves of our manifest rights."

"And what about the court," slyly interjected Mr. Gage.

A Neighborly Quarrel.

A neighborhood row, which culminated in the arrest of J. P. F. Burns and James Burns, his son, for disturing the peace was aired in Justice M. rrison's cour yesterday morning. Mrs. Mulkey, the complaining witness, exhibited a two-pound stone with which little Jimmy Burns hit her last Sunday, and Mr. and Mrs. Mulkey showed by a mass of testimony what a bad lot the Burnses were. The Burns family, on the other hand, had a number of witnesses who swore that the Mulkeys were not altogether blameless in the matter and that the Burnses were guilty of no much greater crime than poverty. After hearing the criminations and re-riminations of both sides, the court took the case under advisement. Opinion seems to be pretty general that the defendants will be acquitted.

ELECTRIC SERVICE FROM THIS CITY TO PASADENA.

Progressive "Rainbow Banquet" Proves a Very Charming Affair. Doings of Good Templars.

PASADENA, March 27 .- (Special Corrependence.) The officers of the electric allway company promise that the cars ill soon be running on their lines direct to Los Angeles, and that when that is the dition of their franchise will be con d with. They state that the delays in completion of the road are unavoidable piled with. They state that the delays in the completion of the road are unavoidable so far as they are concerned, and the public cannot feel more anxious that the road should be finished and cars running on schedule time than they are. They declare that it was only at the last meeting of the Council of South Pasadena that the details of business were settled granting to them fully the privileges necessary for the passage of their road at that point. As evidence of their ability to run the road to the satisfaction of the community, they point to the increased service on the main lines of horse cars, which has made those institutions profitable instead of being a source of monthly deficit, and, they claim, that by the increased patronage and shortened time between cars on the main lines they have greatly simplified the transit question within the limits of Pasadena. They do not deny that there have been vilgorous "kicks" made by the residents upon the lines where cars have been discontinued in order that this increased service should be rendered, but plead in extenuation a desire to grant the greatest good to the greatest number, and to run the street railway business in a way that will make it a good and permanent industry, instead of an erratic and irresponsible labor, the laughing stock of the town and the astonishment of strangers.

PROGRESSIVE "RAINBOW BANQUET."

PROGRESSIVE "RAINBOW BANQUET." The Tuesday Evening Club, compos largely of members of the congregation of the Universalist Church, covered itself with glory Tuesday evening, when it ten-dered to its members the most unique and dered to its members the most unique and beautiful entertainment given in Pasadena this season. This was a "rainbow hanquet," and the aesthetic, as well as the practical side of dining received the attention of the guests present, who were surprised and delighted with the treat prepared for them. Seven tables had been daintily spread with fine napery and silver, furnished by those who presided over the respective boards, and decorated to represent rainbow colors. The guests found their partners and their places by means of orescent-shaped cards, prattily found their partners and their places by means of orescent shaped cards, prattily decorated with the colors of the various tables and bearing inscriptions whose initial letters represented historical characters, indicated also by the nature of the sentiment inscribed on the blank side of the card. The progressive part of the entertainment was a novel and commendable feature, for the ladies remained seated, while the gentlemen, at the end of each course, changed tables, and thus in turn met all the ladies who presided over the repast, and all of the lady guests. The Committee on Arrangements, consisting of Misses Whitlow, Stearns and Stoutenburgh, so skillfully managed the affair that from beginning to end everything moved with clock-work precision, the changes between courses being made without contusion, and the serving of the courses by the fair hostesses was so dert and perfect that the admiration of the guests was well-bestowed. A novel feature was the distribution of walnut shells lied together with ribbons, corresponding to the decorations of the tables, and containing slips of paper on which were written conundrums to be proposed at each change of course. The ladies presiding were dressed in the colors of their tables. They were as follows: At the red table, Mrs. J. L. Crilly, Miss Helen Godfrey; orange, Miss Carter, Mrs. Clara B. PASADENA BREVITIES.

A pleasant party was given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Campbell on Washington street, on Tuesday evening, the occasion being the twenty-first birthday of Mrs. Campbell's brother, Charles Farrar of Pittsburgh, Pa., who has been spending some time with his relatives in Passadena. The parlors were tastefully decorated with cut-flowers, and games of various kinds furnished amusement for the guests. The surprise of the evening, at least to Mr. Farrar, was the presentation to him by his assembled friends, of two beautiful paintings of California scenery, as souvenirs of the auspicious occasion and of his visit to Pasadena. Mr. Farrar will return to Pittsburgh in the near future.

At the meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association Tuesday evening, A. A. Chubb was chosen delegate to the International Convention of the association, which will meet at Springfield, Mass. Reports were read, showing the practical work accomplished in the last three months. They showed that 130 visits had been made and twenty watchers given, beside assistance furnished to the sick and poor. The membership has been materially increased, and the interest has been well maintained. The senate of the association will convene Thursday evening.

Proceedings in Regard to the Horticultural Commissioners.

RIVERSIDE, March 27.—(Special Correspondence.) The past two days and a half have been taken up by the Board of Supervisors in hearing testimony on the charges against Horticultural Commissioner C. W. Godfrey, alleging dereliction of duty and false charges against the county. There has been as much interest manifested in the case as there was in the case of Commissioner House on like charges, inasmuch as it is more a political contest than a contest on the merits of the charges. It is an effort, as shown by Mr. North, the attorney for Mr. Godfrey, by political opponents of Mr. Godfrey, by political opponents of Mr. Godfrey to cust him from office, and not because of any fallure on the part of the Commissioner to perform the duties of his office, or because of any wrongful charges made against the county. The charges were wholly unsupported by the testimony, the witnesses of the prosecution being better witnesses in making the case of the defendant than in supporting the prosecutors. The matter was then taken under advisement until next Monday. It is rumored that the beard may conclude to make it appear that there is no politics in it, and allow Mr. House to remain in office, as he only has two months to serve before his term expires, but dismiss Mr. Godfrey, whose term runs for two years yet.

SCHEME TO ESTABLISH A LARGE PLEASURE RESORT.

A Bogus Check Dodger-Teachers Institute - Private Information Regarding the Florida Orange Freeze.

SAN BERNARDINO, March 27.—(Special Correspondence.) Within a mile or two of the city limits are the Harlem Springs, from which flow something over 200 inches of water, forming the bead-waters of one of the minor sources of supply for Riverside irrigation work, the springs being confined in a small boundary, and surrounded by thirty or forty acres of excellent land. They are both hot and cold, and have been utilized as a bathing resort, a pool having been arranged for swimmers, hot and cold bathrooms put up, but no great amount of money expended on it. A syndicate of wealthy men are considering the feasibility of erecting a series of fine cottages, with hotel attachment, enlarging the pool to a small lake for swimming and boating, improving the grounds by the sid of a landscape gardener, and making of the place an elegant pleasure resort. If those now contemplating these improvements fail to take hold of the project, others will do so, and make of this one of the best interior resorts in Southern California. A motor road is run through the place to Highland, which will be remodeled to standard gauge and connected with the Riverside and Rediands motor lines, forming a chain of motors that will bring it within reach of all parts of the county and the outside world. It is also under contemplation to make a boulevard for pleasure driving of Base Line street, which runs by it through the valley. It is not intended that this is to be a resort for invalids who need the doctor's care, but for a pleasure resort both summer and winter; though it will be an excellent location for the convelecting invalid to recuperate with rest, bathing and outdoor life.

SAN DIEGO.

Concocting Railroad Schemes to Gridiron the Continet.

SAN DIEGO, March 27 .- (Special Correspondence.) The spirit of harmony ap-pears to be about to permeate this people and the warring water promoters and factions of the Silver Gate. On Tuesday Jul-ius M. Howells, chief engineer of the Conof the Mt. Tecarte Water Company, H. B. Crittenden and Mr. Metcalf of the Real Estate Dealers' Association, Mr. Miller of the Ledgerwood Company of New York, and M. Y. Beach inspected the upper and and M. Y. Beach inspected the upper and lower Otay reservoirs of the Mt. Tecarte Company and the large areas of excellent ranch lands which this water system will irrigate. The prospect made a deep and favorable impression upon the observers. The upper Otay reservoir, which will hold 1000 inches of water, has a rocky chasm for a dam site, which is only nine feet wide at the base. This great reservoir empties immediately into the lower Otay reservoir. This lower reservoir at 130 feet reservoir. This lower reservoir at 130 feet contour will hold over 13,000,000,000 gal-lons or 9000 to 10,000 inches. The construc-tion of the lower Otay dam is progressing contour will hold over 13,000,000,000 gallons or 9000 to 10,000 inches. The construction of the lower Otay dam is progressing rapidly.

An apparently promising feature in the water situation is a desire manifested by many clitzens, as well as by the water promoters, to "come together," and, instead of continually fighting each other, the hope is entertained that they will work together for the mutual welfare of the water companies and of the people. With this end in view it is understood that the Linda Vista directors deferred action with the Mountain Stream Water Company on Tuesday, concerning an irrigation contract. Meanwhile Engineer Howells will examine the Mt. Tecarte system critically and consult with his principals in the Consolidated Water Company with a view to harmonising the interests of the two corporations. If harmony is thus obtained it will be a step of considerable importance toward a speedy solution of the water question.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Elkins and family have arrived at Hotel del Coronado from Philadelphia.

G. H. Carey, secretary of the San Diego, Pacific and Eastern Railroad says that the prospect for the railroad men's railroad was never better. He is reported as saying: "The railroad men are becoming very enthusiastic over the plan.

Inside of three mouths there will be coming into San Diego every month sufficient money from rafiroad men to build and equip ten miles or road, or even more, in my judgment." Mr. Carey said concerning the second Eastern line from San Diego. There is no conflict of interests, and we are praying as hard for his success as for our own." On top of the hopeful talk of Mr. Carey comes the report that the Durango, Plagstaff and San Diego. Railroad will soon connect the Silver Gate with the Denver and Rio Grande or some other system. Current rumor has it that the obstacles encountered by those desirous of extending the San Diego, Cuyamaca and Eastern Railroad on to Yuma are shout to be removed and the road extended. If all these railroad projects are realized San

DISCOVERY Cures Ninety-eight per cent. of all cases of Consumption, in all its Earlier Stages.

Bariler Stages.

Although by many believed to be incurable, there is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its earlier stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully of per cent. are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of fiesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses, in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty codliver oil and its fifthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of mait, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain.

The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic masal catarrh and krindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 160 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stampa. THE ANNUAL MEETING OPENED WITH A CONFERENCE.

The Rain Prevented a Large Attendance, but Did not Dampen the Ardor of Those Who Were Present.

The opening meeting of the conference between the professors from the State University and the leading high-school teachers of Southern California, at the High-school building, vesterday afternoon was organized by the election of E. E. Cates as chairman. The subject of the first discussion was "English in the High School," presented by E. E. Cates, and discussed by Profs. Bradley and Slate, discussed by Profs. Bradley and Slate, President Kellogg of the State University and Superintendent Search.

The second topic, "Is the High-school Course of Study that Prepares for College the Best Preparation for Life?" was presented by Miss Eugenia Fuller, the principal of the High School at Riverside. The discussion was participated in by Prof. Slate, Superintendent Search, Prof. Stringham, President C. H. Keyes and others.

The conference, which is preliminary to the convention of the Southern California Teachers' Association, will continue through this morning, and the general session will begin in the afternoon at the Normal-school building. This morning the teachers are to visit the Los Angeles schools and witness the working of the individual system of instruction applied to schools of from forty to fifty children. The session this afternoon will be opened by an address on "Recent School Legislation and its Meaning," by Hon. S. T. Black, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. He will be followed by Prof. George Comstock of Pomona College. This evening an address by Superintendent Search on "Educational Economy" will be succeeded by a reception tendered by the Los Angeles teachers.

Senator Mitchell Calls for a Report on the Subject.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The amend-ment of Senator Mitchell of Oregon, inserted in the Sundry Civil Bill, may lead to some interesting results, and also cause further international complications, similar to those over Bering Sea. As a part of the appropriation for the protection of salmon fisheries in Alaska, there is a proon that the Secretary of the Treasury vision that the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to send an inspector to investigate and report upon the destruction of the eggs of wild fowls, and the alleged wanton destruction of game birds, deer, fox and other animals of Alaska. A report is also asked gs to what method should be taken to prevent such destruction in the Tature.

It appears that the Canadian poacher, of content with the destruction of seals, R appears that the Canadian poacher, not content with the destruction of seals, is planning to play havoc in the wilds of Alaska, where game birds make their nests in summer and rear their young. These eggs have been found valuable in the manufacture of certain articles, and are taken by thousands. While the poachers are at work they also kill everything that comes along. There has been a perceptible falling off in the number of game birds on the Pacific Coast, and the investigation of the causes led to the discovery of this new form of poaching. It is believed by Senator Mitchell that an official report on what the people of the Pacific Coast have discovered will lead to legislation to prevent further poaching. ther poaching.

A PLUMBERS' STRIKE.

MEETING LAST EVENING TO DISCUSS THE SITUATION.

The Journeymen Say One Thing and the Boss Plumbers Another— Same Wages Wanted

The Journeyman Plumbers Union held a meeting last evening to take action on the cut proposed to be inaugurated by the Master Plumbers' Association the first of the month. The meeting was secret and largely attended. At its close the mem-bers refused to divulge the results of the proceedings, but one who was a little more communicative than the rest, inti-mated that the journeymen would resis the demand for a reduction of wages When asked whether this meant a strike he said not necessarily, as there was strong hope of bringing the master plumbers to terms without resorting to extreme meas-

Judging from the attitude of the leading master plumbers, though, it is doubtful whether the difficulty can be so easily adjusted. Their proposition is to pay $3 a day of eight hours after March 31, instead of $4 as at present. This cut will not be accepted by the journeymen without struggle.

The master plumbers say the rate of wages paid by them at present is higher than in any other city in the Union, and out of all proportion with the price of other labor. One of the largest employers of plumbing labor said yesterday he did not object to paying $4 a day to men who were worth it, but the trouble was that the union compelled him to pay $4 a day to every man he employed whether he could earn that amount or not. He said some members of the union were not worth $2 a day, yet he had to pay them $4 if he employed them. It was impossible to get enough first-chass men all the time, so the contractor who thad to pay $4 a day indiscriminately, often lost money. Then again the incompetent men who could not get steady work at union wages wor d get a few tools and go about doing jobs at prices that were demoralizing to the trade. The master plumbers were willing to pay $4 as the minimum day's wages, and to exceptionally good men would continue to pay $4 and even more, if necessary to retain their services, but they could not go on paying $4 a day to all journeymen, good, bad and indifferent.

It is claimed that it is not the Master Plumbers' Association that is making the demand for a reduction, but about twenty-one of the leading members acting in their individual capacity. Some of the journeymen say it is but an effort on the part of the big concerns to freeze out all the smaller ones, and when this is done the combine will cinch the public by charging higher prices for all classes of work. struggle. master plumbers say the rate of

OVERFLOW OF SEWAGE.

The Settling Chamber of the Outfall Sewer is Overloaded.

The damage from the overflow of the settling chamber of the outfall sewer, which was reported to the City Engineer late yesterday afternoon, will probably not be very heavy unless the rain should continue for two or three days or more.

The large volume of water and sewage flowing in the sewer above the settling chamber, which is located near Agricultural Park, is probably due to the fact that the heavy rains of yesterday caused water to be backed up at numerous street corners so much as to permit of its overflowing into sewer manholes, which are usually placed where the surface water will not placed where the surface water will not ordinarily enter them.

The effect of the increased flow of sewage and water from above the settling chamber, as near as could be ascertained from an examination made last night, was that so much water was discharged into the chamber that the iro nbars, which are near the entrance and are placed perpendicularly extending across the chamber, together with the pieces of rubbish which had been caught by the bars, formed a sort of dam, which backed the water up.

This being the case the water which was backed up pressed strongly upward against the heavy iron plates on the top of the chamber and lifted them sufficiently to al-of the chamber where it discharged into the wooden siphon running to Hyde Park, were removed and a small quantity of water ran in at that point, showing the suction from the outfall was more than capable of taking off the water and sewage, which had passed between the iron bars above mentioned and come to that end of the chamber.

The water and sewage running away from the chamber took a southwesterly course and appeared to not be doing much damage except about the premises of Lucas Balardes, near by, where it was running about the house and barn in a way that in time might do considerable injury.

Mr. Balardes stated that soon after the rain was at its heaviest, late in the afternoon, there were about five heads of the overflow running away from the chamber. Later in the night, however, there were only about three heads flowing from there.

An Old Soldier in Trouble.

R. O. Jones, an old soldier, was lodged in the County Jail Tuesday night on the charge of assault to commit rape on a thirteen-year-old girl at Santa Monica. Jones claims that it is a trumped-up charge and that he will be able to prove his innocence. Deputy District Attorney Willis has taken charge of the case for the people, and Jones will be taken to Santa Monica today for examination before the Justice of the Peace at that place.
